FIRE FATAL TO SIX CHILDREN

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Residence Burns To Ground; Parents, Two Others Escape

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Aug. 18—Six children were burned to death today when fire, starting from an exploding coal stove, razed their farm home within 30 minutes at nearby Grange.

Their parents and two other children were rescued.

Killed were the following children of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Bush: Leora, 11; Fanny, 10; Kurt, nine; Shirley, seven; Clay, four, and Nancy, five.

Survivors were the Bushes, and Elva, 13, and Cloy, four. Elva jumped to safety from a second floor window, while Cloy apparently was thrown out by Leora. He suffered slight burns on his arms and singed hair.

The flames quickly ate through the two-story frame building after the coal fire exploded, preventing the rescue of the others, witnesses said.

Bush is employed by the WPA.

NIPPONESE SAY NEW MILITARY UNION FORMED

U. S. and Britain Attempting To Send Japan, Russia Into Open War?

"EXHAUSTION" IS SOUGHT

Radio Discloses Chungking Government To Prepare 14 New Air Fields

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—The United States, it was learned today, has made strong representations to Japan over the holding of 100 American private citizens who wish to return home.

This government made the representations through diplomatic channels after it was notified by the Japanese government that the American citizens would not be permitted to board the American liner, President Coolidge, which the State Department planned to send to a Nippon port to pick them up.

It is hoped in official quarters in Washington, however, that the incident will not become a serious one.

TOKYO, Aug. 18—America and Britain, the newspaper Miyako charged today, are maneuvering to bring Japan and the Soviets into open warfare in order to frustrate Japanese expansion.

The United States and Britain, Miyako Shimbun charged, "really desire the exhaustion of Germany, Japan, and even the Soviet Union through a war of attrition."

"They embrace the unholy design of checking Japan's southward advance by pitting the Soviets against Japan in open hostilities."

As a result of this view, Nippon adopted a more defiant attitude, Captain Hideo Hiraike, spokesman for the navy, asserted that an economic war already is being waged between the United States and Japan.

HALF INCH RAIN AIDS DISTRICT; FALL CONTINUES

More than half an inch of rain came to Circleville Monday to help thirsty corn fields and meadows. Official measurement at noon was .63 inches, the first good rain this month.

Agricultural Agent F. K. Blair said the added moisture would help late corn, meadows and pastures. Much of the early corn already has ripened and some even has been cut and consequently will not be helped by the rain, the county agent said. The dry weather has brought most serious damage to crops in eastern and southern sections of the county.

President Finds Several Big Problems Awaiting As He Resumes Duties

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Roosevelt advised congressional leaders today that additional large lend-lease appropriations would be necessary as he reported to them on his dramatic high seas meeting with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The budget bureau is now engaged in a study of requirements for further British aid. The congressional group which was closeted with the President for an hour and a half were told that they could expect a communication within a matter of weeks — presumably after the House and Senate resume full-time operations in mid-September.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Congressional leaders were called to the White House today by President Roosevelt to receive a report on the chief executive's momentous high seas conference with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the British war command.

In turn, the President is expected to inquire into the temper of Congress, both Houses of which during his absence made arrangements to take what amounts to a month's recess, leaving urgently requested defense legislation hanging in mid-air.

The President returned to his desk confronted with a number of problems of the first water, both international and domestic. During the day decisions are anticipated on:

1. The course this government will pursue to get over 100 Americans, held as virtual hostages, out of Japan;
2. The question of federal seizure of the Kearny, N. J., yard of Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, whose president, L. H. Kornorff, has rejected recommendations of the National Defense Mediation Board in the company's dispute with CIO shipworkers.

Leaders Summoned

Vice-president Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormack were called in to hear about the dramatic meeting with Churchill which resulted in a complete understanding on necessary steps to bring about "final destruction of the Nazi tyranny."

Speaker Rayburn was unable to be present because of a speaking engagement in Cincinnati.

Mr. Roosevelt has not yet aired his views on the congressional decision to take a month off. Some of his aides recalled that last summer when the President wanted Congress to adjourn, the legislators decided in view of the national emergency it was their duty to stand constantly by. At that time, Mr. Roosevelt had said he wanted no more immediate legislation.

Today, White House aides point out, there is a great amount of legislative assistance desired by the President.

In the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Roosevelt conferred Sunday with Secretary of State Hull immediately following return from his cruise. The Japanese crisis unquestionably was a foremost problem of debate, as was future attitude of the U. S. government.

REICH RESUMES AIR BLITZ, HITS HULL AT NIGHT

LONDON, Aug. 18—Germany for the first time in weeks resumed air blitz tactics with a deadly attack during the night on the port of Hull, but the Air Ministry today announced that the RAF struck with equal force against Bremen and Duisburg.

Authorities feared that the death toll at Hull may reach a high figure before all the debris is cleared away.

In spite of bad weather, 100 RAF bombers and a large protective force of fighters took part in the attacks on the Reich.

"Many large fires" were reported at Duisburg and Bremen. One British plane is missing.

The Luftwaffe blow against Hull, northeastern port city, was brief but intense.

FIERCE RUSSIAN FIGHTING HALTS GERMAN DRIVES

Moscow Claims All Of Reich Armies Being Slowed Down Over Long Front

TWO BASES SURRENDERED

New Soviet Army Ready To Defend Oil Pipe Lines In Batum, Baku Zone

MOSCOW, Aug. 18—Russian military authorities today asserted that Germany's drive in the Ukraine appears to be slowing down due to fierce Russian resistance, while the Soviets are counter-attacking on the Central Front and holding their own in the north.

In an unsuccessful drive on the city of "K"—not identified further—the Germans lost 20,000 men killed or wounded, the Soviet newspaper Red Star reported.

The Red army, however, admitted evacuation of Nikolaev, major Soviet naval base on the Black Sea, and Krivoy Rog, iron and steel center in the Ukraine.

But before moving out of Nikolaev, an official bulletin said, all the dockyards where a large portion of Russian shipbuilding has been conducted, were blown up and the port in general rendered useless to the Nazis.

"Soviet troops continue fierce fighting along the entire front," today's early bulletin, covering activity of Sunday, said.

"The Germans are pressing desperately on the Southern and Northern Fronts."

"Timoshenko's forces are checking the German advance and even counter-attacking in individual sectors."

Russian submarines were credited with sinking two large Romanian transports in the Black Sea.

Moscow Defended

A few German air raiders attempted to reach Moscow during the night, but official statements said the formations were dispersed and prevented from bombing the capital.

Official announcements did not state that the German drive in the Ukraine has been stemmed, but semi-official declarations said the German push has "lost some of its vigor."

Russian quarters predicted that the eastern Ukraine would develop into "another Smolensk"—the G. M. might make the area, but only at the cost of losses badly crippling the Reich's war effort.

Even now, said the Russians, the Germans are "sustaining heavy losses in man-power."

In fighting near the town of "M," said a government announcement, more than 5,000 German warriors were slain. Residents of "M" said the Germans forced practically everybody in the town to dig common graves for the slain Germans, "but even this proved insufficient."

PRESIDENT PUTS NAME ON ACTION TO DEFER MEN 28

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Roosevelt today signed long-awaited legislation providing for mandatory deferment of men over 28 from military service under the Selective Service Act.

The law defers all men who became 28 by July 1, 1941, and those who reached that age on any subsequent July 1 while the draft act is in force.

It further provides that all men over 28 now in service be released and placed in reserve status "as soon as practicable" after they request to be discharged.

PIERS AND SHIPS CATCH FIRE AS BLAZE SPREADS

Forty Persons Taken To Hospitals; Others Listed Missing

SABOTAGE IS CHARGED

Longshoremen Jump From Steamer To Safety In East River

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—The greatest waterfront fire in years—possibly kindled by the torch of a saboteur—was sweeping piers and ships with destructive fury in Brooklyn's Erie basin this afternoon.

At 12:30 p. m., a short time after the fire broke out 40 persons had been taken to Holy Family and Long Island College Hospitals. Several others were reported missing.

Most of the injured had been trapped in barges near the pier where the flames first were sighted.

Scene of the outbreak of the flames was Pier 27, at the foot of Baltic Street, where supplies are loaded for shipment to England and Suez.

Five alarms were turned in, one following the other in rapid succession, as explosions spread the flames with lightning rapidity. Some of the explosions rocked the financial districts of lower Manhattan.

The flames spread and mushroomed through the Cuba line ship Ponuco, which berthed at Pier 27 only yesterday after a voyage from Mexico. Three barges also were swept by flames.

Men Leap To Safety

A dozen longshoremen were trapped on the Ponuco, but saved their lives by diving overboard and swimming out into the East River where police launches picked them up.

Even as the firefighters fought to quench the blaze, police began preparations for an investigation into the possibility of sabotage.

The fire was being fought from land and water. Both New York City and Brooklyn apparatus was in use, the New York fire fighters racing across Brooklyn Bridge. Fireboats also were brought into play, getting as close as possible to the roaring flames.

One report said that 300 longshoremen working at the pier were forced to leap into the water to escape the onrushing blaze.

Many of these were believed to have been picked up by police launches and fireboats. There was a possibility, however, that some who had sought refuge beneath the pier had lost their lives.

Half an hour after the fire started some of the men still were swimming out toward the center of the East River.

The flames were reported spreading to an adjacent pier. Lighters near this pier, laden with oil, were said to have been ignited.

The Ponuco arrived with a mixed cargo, including hemp which burned fiercely. The ship was scheduled to clear for Mexico today with a cargo of oil it was taking aboard when the fire broke out.

VETERANS HEAR SENATOR WARN AGAINST STRIFE

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 18—Warned by U. S. Senator Harold H. Burton of Cleveland that the United States should not "jump" into the present war, Ohio American Legion members continued their four-day convention today with the grand parade tonight highlighting the session.

Nearly 1,000 delegates were in Stambaugh auditorium to hear Burton's reasons why this country should not enter the war at present.

"Every day we stay out of the fighting," Burton said, "gives the axis collection of subservient peoples more time to explode from within or turn on one another."

complete the encirclement of Japan." If this encirclement continues, said Capt. Hiraide, "Japan will be driven to make a decision involving her life or death."

The newspaper Hochi, extremist in policy but often able to voice government opinions, took the lead in warnings against the United States.

"It is regrettable," Hochi said today, "that the Soviet Union decided to join the Americans and British against the axis."

"Japan's partners, Italy and Germany, will not remain indifferent to increasing collaboration among Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States."

Anticipating that the forthcoming tripartite conference in Moscow may result in a promise by the democracies to send arms and munitions in exchange for Russian raw materials, iron ore, coal, oil and manganese, Hochi added:

"If the Soviet Union accepts this deal, it will be greatly disappointed, as it is well-known that the United States and Britain are not able to extend aid to others."

Japs Not Responsible

The paper closed with the admonition: "If collaboration brings about any change in the far eastern situation, Japan will not be responsible for any alteration in the current relations with Russia, which up to now have been improving."

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, revealed that new trade negotiations were broken off when the East Indian government rejected demands for large quantities of oil and other raw materials from the islands.

A Domei dispatch from Batavia said that the trade talks are making such smooth progress that "resumption of normal commercial relations is expected."

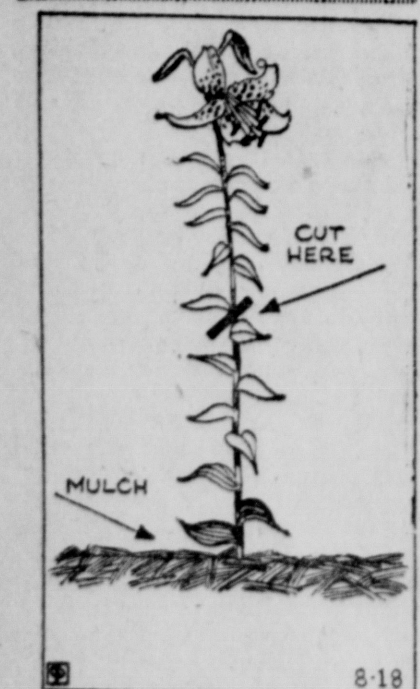

MANVILLE TO WED, THEN ADOPT NEW WIFE'S SON

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Aug. 18—Tommy Manville, playboy heir to the Johns-Manville asbestos fortune, today disclosed that he planned to marry strawberry blonde Beverly Paterno and adopt her four-year-old son as soon as she obtains a divorce from the wealthy Joseph P. Paterno.

The four-times married Manville, who said this marriage would be marked by an inexpensive Niagara Falls honeymoon, said the boy would inherit his entire estate if the adoption goes through. "There is nobody closer to me," he declared.

Pot-grown strawberries can be set out now with assurance of their bearing fruit next season.

Today's Garden-Graph

Special care for lilies

Lilies add beauty and dignity to the garden whether used singly or in masses.

Lilies need special care during the hot, dry spells of summer. The soil in which they grow should be kept cool and slightly moist. If the lily roots are shaded by the foliage of other plants growing nearby or if they have a ground cover growing over them it may prove to be enough protection. When the lilies stand by themselves in full sun, the soil about them should be well mulched. Granulated peat or even grass clippings will serve.

As shown in the Garden-Graph, when cutting lilies for indoor decoration or when the blooms have faded leave about half of each stem and its foliage to manufacture food for the bulb. This method of cutting assures large blooms for next year.

If cut back just as the blooms begin to fade, many lilies will produce blooms again later in the season.

COUNCIL FACES CASH PROBLEM AT NEXT CONFAB

Money To Operate Various Departments Needed As Special Levy Fails

PARKING QUESTION UP

Authorization Needed For Service Director To Buy Meters

Main issue which will come before City Council when it meets Wednesday night is that of financing the city departments through the coming year.

With its 1½ mill levy turned down by voters, Council has lost the possibility of obtaining approximately $24,000, $12,000 a year for two years, through taxation. Before the levy came before the voters last Tuesday Council reported that unless the issue won the necessary support of the voters drastic measures to cut city police and fire protection, as well as funds for street lights and Berger Hospital expenses would have to be taken.

Councilmen may plan some sort of expense-saving plan when they meet Wednesday night.

Another issue, one which has been a main topic of discussion in Council for many months, is that of providing the city with a parking program. Although ordinances calling for parallel parking and parking meters have been passed by Council, no authorization has yet been given to the service director to advertise for bids for the purchase of parking meters. An ordinance granting the service director such power was read for the first time at Council's last session and the ordinance will come up for its second reading Wednesday night. Until the ordinance is passed it is not expected that any action to prepare the streets for installation of meters will be taken. Service Director Leonard Morgan has made no announcement of when his department will paint the parallel parking lines in the business area.

CHURCH YOUTHS GATHER TUESDAY AT CAMP GROUND

Young people of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union from all over Ohio will gather at the Mount of Praise Camp Ground Tuesday for their state rally, preparatory to the opening of the 24th annual camp meeting.

Since August 4, Church of Christ officials have been working on the grounds and announced Monday that they were prepared for one of the largest camp meetings crowds they ever had.

The young people's rally will open Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. with the Rev. Paul Thomas of Indianapolis delivering the message. The session will be held in the large tabernacle on the camp grounds in order to provide seating space for the young people.

The Rev. O. L. Ferguson, pastor of the local church, said Monday he expected about 2,000 young people to attend the opening session, providing the weather is favorable. Rainy weather will check the attendance considerably, he said.

FARM LABORER GETS MORE PAY FOR HIS WORK

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18—Farm laborers have a distinct advantage in selling their services today as compared with their opportunities for the last 10 years, but the golden age of the hired man apparently ended with the beginning of 1920, when rate of wages, total wage payments, and number of farm laborers employed all were at peaks for the period 1910-40.

Hired men who drew a dollar in wages in 1910 could get $2.25 for the same service in 1919, farmers paid out about $225 in total wages in 1919 for each $100 paid in 1910, and the number of hired men employed in each of the two years was almost identical. From 1919 until the end of 1922, wages of farm labor and total money paid out by farmers for hired help dropped precipitously.

There was a slight upturn in wage rates and in amount of money paid for farm help in the period 1922-29, and the number of hired men employed increased slightly even over the numbers working from 1910 to 1920. The Black Friday for farm help men started at the end of the 1929 work season and continued increasing in gloom until January, 1934.

Agricultural economists at Ohio State University say the hired man who received a dollar in wages in 1910 and $2.25 for the same work in 1919 could sell the services for only 87 cents at the end of 1933. In addition, only 70 men were employed for each 100 working on farms in 1910.

The turning point came in 1934, and farm wages have improved continuously since then, so the hired man at the beginning of 1941 was getting $1.25 for work which he did for $1.00 in 1910, for $2.25 in 1919, and for 87 cents in 1933. Total money paid out by farmers for wages, however, has not kept pace because the number of men employed on farms now is only about 87 percent of the number working on farms through the period 1910-30.

Spurious Tickets For Excursion Cause Riot

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Police today sought the printer whose issuance of counterfeit boat excursion tickets resulted in yesterday's dock riot of 10,000 Negroes in which three women were trampled to death and 75 persons injured.

Killed under the feet of their fellow-picknickers, who rioted on a Hudson River dock at the news that thousands of tickets for their Odd Fellows outing were spurious, were Marion Worrell, 48, Rose Grant, 50, and Martha Murraine, 54.

The excursionists, who were waiting to board the river steamer Delaware for a trip to Poughkeepsie, made a mad rush for the gangplank when the word spread that only 3,200 of the 10,000 could be accommodated aboard the chartered vessel.

Hundreds of women, clinging desperately to small children, were thrown to the rough board plank of the 132nd Street dock and were ground underfoot by the mob. The water was dotted with lunch baskets, shoes, hats, dresses, and luggage.

Police, who had to fire shots in the air in order to restore order, reported that their investigation showed that the "regular" ticket sale had not exceeded the passenger capacity of the boat.

LANCASTER MAN PROBES BLAZES IN CIRCLEVILLE

Investigation of the two fires at the old Riggins poultry house off South Western Avenue continued Monday after Assistant State Fire Marshal W. D. Himes, Lancaster, left the city Saturday after a two-day probe with no report.

Firemen said that Himes may come back Monday to continue his investigation of the two fires, one Friday morning at about 5 o'clock and one Saturday morning at almost exactly the same time, which brought an estimated $200 damage to the frame building.

Both fires started in a refrigerator box which stands in the center of the building.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

20,000 LAWS NOT ENOUGH

It's a common saying that there are too many laws. We have so many now we can't keep track of them and the codes are cluttered with laws that are no longer observed or necessary. Periodically the legislatures have a sort of legal housecleaning when they go through their respective codes and lop off the dead laws. Even so, the total continues to grow.

But there is one phase of the law in which there are too few rather than too many laws. This has to do with Public Notices, also known as Official or Legal Advertising. Such a Notice may have to do with public matters like the letting of a contract for a public improvement. Again, it may concern an individual matter like an application for a license as a security salesman. There are many variations.

It is reliably estimated that in the forty-eight states there are about 20,000 laws dealing with Public Notices in some form or other. While these laws, too, need occasional housecleaning, there are too few rather than too many of them. The reasons are that as life becomes more complex it is important to safeguard the principle of giving Notice where private or public rights are concerned; that new needs arise not covered by existing law; and that frequent efforts are made to weaken or circumvent present provisions.

The underlying principle is almost as old as the Anglo-Saxon peoples. Its importance is such as to call for constant vigilance and strengthening. It is one of the vital democratic processes.

THRIFTY LIVING

ALL the good old copy book proverbs about thrift are given new life as the cost of living rises and the supplies of some recently common commodities dwindle. Shortages of some things can be compensated by use of others. For example, instead of aluminum and stainless steel utensils people can use cast iron, enamel and heat-resistant glass.

But even where substitutes are available, it will be well to heed the advice of government authorities. Watch labels, they say, so that you may know how the quality of materials changes and may plan your purchases accordingly. Take exceptionally good care of what you now have on hand. This applies to the vanishing silk hose, the aluminum stuff that was still in use and in too good condition for donation to the scrap pile. It applies, too, to electrical equipment in the home, to shoes and other clothing, to tools, and automobiles.

Americans have been known abroad as shockingly wasteful. It has been said that a European family could thrive on what an American family throws away. Now things are to be different. We are still blessed with many pleasant and useful possessions, but there are definite limits to their abundance. Here is our opportunity to show that we appreciate our material blessings by taking the best possible care of them.

A WORLD PARTY

RUSSELL W. Davenport, editor of Fortune Magazine, wants an International Party as a means of securing lasting peace. He suggests as its platform:

- Belief in the principles of individual liberty.
- Economic system yielding security for all and opportunity for advancement.
- Adaptation of government to requirements of scientific development.
- Creation of an Area of Freedom where in the peoples of each state acknowledge values indispensable to liberty and responsibilities to the people of other states, with sovereign rights and privileges to be exercised with the approval of all.
- This is a fine program. But it looks as if it might take a long time to put it over, and it requires a good deal of defining of terms before most of us can understand just what Mr. Davenport wants.
- It is, in all seriousness, important to be thinking about these things. But the first step in the right direction is the one we

WORLD AT A GLANCE.....

OUR LAST WAR and post-war boom and the following prolonged period of depression were recent enough to be remembered by a great many individuals in high governmental, financial, industrial, commercial and scientifically economic positions. Consequently, with our present defense boom swelling daily bigger and bigger, there are many more references now than there were then to the kind of thing that booms invariably lead to.

The question is: Can a would-be boom be prevented from booming? If not, can it be prevented from popping ultimately? Or, if a pop is inevitable, can such prearrangements be made as to render it harmless?

National Price Fixer Leon Henderson is working overtime to keep today's boom from attaining dangerous proportions. He admits that the infernal thing is gaining on him but he's doing his utmost to keep it from getting beyond control utterly. It never has been tried before. Hitherto booms have been considered very gratifying—as providing plenty of profits for capital and oodles of employment for labor and the popular demand has been to "let 'em flicker." That last experience, though, was a lesson, not far enough back to have been forgotten.

National Production Manager William S. Knudsen doesn't question Leon's system in principle, but he does argue that Leon's operating it so urgently as to threaten considerable unemployment right now, regardless of the future.

AXIS FIRMS BLACKLISTED

WASHINGTON — Confidential cables to the Commerce Department report that Axis business firms in South America are shipping their files and records to Japan.

Last week twelve Japanese vessels put in at five different West Coast Latin American ports ostensibly to pick up Tokyo-bound mail. What they actually loaded was hundreds of crates filled with the papers and books of Axis businessmen who had been forced out by the U. S. blacklist and the freezing of Axis funds.

Hundreds of Axis firms have shut down all over South America, and thousands of Germans and Italians have been flocking to southern Chile, where there is a large German colony. Their files and papers have followed, all painstakingly marked "mail" and sent to Tocopilla and Coquimbo, Chilean ports, or to Mollendo (Peru), Guayaquil (Ecuador), and Buenaventura (Colombia).

By obvious pre-arrangement, the fleet of 12 Japanese ships arrived at these ports shortly after the records turned up. No effort was made to stop shipment, since the contents of the crates were known to authorities.

NOTE—Axis funds also are in flight from Latin America, apparently fearful of freezing action. In one case $5,800,000 in U. S. currency owned by a German agent in Brazil was transferred to Santiago, Chile, then to Buenos Aires, where instructions were received to convert the money into salable commodities.

FISH EGGS

Announcement that 57-year-old, four-times married Senator Reynolds was to wed 20-year-old Evalyn McLean, $80,000-a-year heiress, brought great jubilation to one man in North Carolina. He is Cam Morrison, whom Reynolds nine years ago unseated chiefly on the issue of Morrison's wealthy wife.

Reynolds did not mince words in making this issue. His campaign speech on the subject was an epic of rabble-rousing. After emphasizing Mrs. Morrison's wealth, Reynolds launched into a colorful description of the "lavish" life his opponent led in Washington. He told how Senator Morrison resided in "one of those great swanky hotels", surrounded by luxury and pomp and an army of flunkies.

Then Reynolds hit his climax: "And when he drives up to this palatial hotel in a long sleek car with a uniformed chauffeur, the flunkies run out and unroll a long red carpet so that Cam won't have to put his feet on the pavement. Then his chauffeur jumps out and opens the door.

"And then, my friends, when Cam sits down to supper, do you know what he eats? He eats ka-vee-ar! Yes, sir, ka-vee-ar. And do you know what ka-vee-ar is? It's fish eggs, my friends, fish eggs!"

New Hayfever Remedy Tested Successfully

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● A new treatment for hayfever was announced early this summer. The report comes from the Vanderbilt Clinic, New York City, from the Nose and Throat Service, and therefore must be regarded as carrying authority and responsibility. I have had no experience upon the sympathetic nervous system and has a desensitizing effect.

In favorable cases, a marked improvement is usually seen after two or three injections. No unfavorable reactions have been observed although in a few cases, the sneezing is made worse and there is a slight increase in temperature for a day or two.

Of seventy-five patients treated, 70% were pronounced cured, 25% were pronounced improved, and in one case the reaction was a complete failure.

The author of this report states: "I know it would be more interesting to report about these results after the observation of patients over a long period of time. But on the one hand, I think this remedy is so harmless and brings such quick relief that it should be in the hands of the profession as soon as possible."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. P. B.: "What would cause skin blemishes of the following type. These blemishes don't occur under normal conditions. When I get extra excited, angry, or partake of alcoholic drinks, or eat an extra large, hot meal, they occur on my chest and neck in dark red spots; otherwise I am in the best of health."

A. B. M. H.: "Can you please tell me what can be done to get rid of corns?"

Answer: Get rid of the cause first, which is a badly fitting shoe or stocking or both. Any amount of money invested in a comfortable shoe which throws the weight off the corn is worth while. The removal of corns is usually simple with corn plaster and a good corn knife.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Week Reducing Diet", "Indigestion and Constipation", "Reducing and Gaining", "Infant Feeding", "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

Desensitizing Effect

Circleville schools were to open September 14 for a 36-week year.

The marriage of Miss Marie Stevens of Columbus to Mr. Eugene Dresbach, also of that city, was announced by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Stevens, parents of the bride. Mr. Dresbach was the son of Mrs. Ada Dresbach of Kingston.

Castle of Contentment

By LORENA CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

FORTUNATELY, Alkire's home and all the extra Christmas trade kept Ylena too busy to delve again into her personal motives. As the tide of holiday shoppers swooped into the shop, increasing day after day, she hired two more helpers. One, a young sister of Frankie's, the other a wiry, gray-haired spinster type who appeared from nowhere and directed her employer, "Just call me Barker."

It took Ylena less than one day to realize the brusque Barker knew far more about the business than she herself, not only about everything from trinkets to valuables, but also about the actual decorating. To say nothing of professional gossip!

Quietly she asked on her second day, "Have you thought about putting in a bid for the Ensenada hotel?"

"Heavens no!" Ylena cried. "They haven't even started it."

"All the more reason to get in early bid."

"I wouldn't know the first thing about decorating a 300-room desert hotel," Ylena insisted, "to say nothing of private cottages and cabanas."

Barker shrugged, "It's just doing one room 200 times." She lifted piercing eyes to the timid blond girl. Then she bent again over the desk where she had been working. "You have sketches right here that would be a suitable start."

Ylena glanced down. Penciled in her large scribble book were scenes she had remembered from Scott Hamilton's ranch.

"They're good!" Barker praised and spurred the girl's ambitions still further. "Wouldn't it make you proud to do the Ensenada hotel, Miss Varanoff?"

The girl's eyes glowed like green coals. Enthusiasm touched her voice with a warm glow. "Of course I'd be proud! That would be an assignment so tremendous as to stop Tate's little jests. 'How's the sewing bee today'—or 'Does Mrs. Whatever want the 10-cent fringe or the 15-cent on their kitchen curtains?' Remarks intended to tease, they actually rankled."

Barker was watching her. "Then tell Mr. Alkire. I happen to know he is putting a great deal of money into it."

Her surprise that Barker possessed so much information was lost in her surprise that Terry Alkire had anything to do with the new hotel, about which all of La Madera was so excited. He hadn't told her, she thought childishly.

She gave a jerky, determined nod. "I will ask him. I'll ask him tonight."

And she did, while leading him through the Garden of Alty to get his opinion on what she, up to date, had accomplished. He leaned against a door and laughed at her. "So little Smal-Fry wants to do a famous hotel? A luxurious project that decorators from New York and San Francisco will be bidding on?" His features dropped into seriousness. "Who told you I had a part in it?"

"Barker, my new helper."

"Who is she?"

Ylena said puzzledly, "A combination of bloodhound and Indian, with an ear to the ground. She's plenty smart, she knows even more than the skitter-headed boss."

"That's good," Alkire grinned into Ylena's black look. "I'll see what I can do. Of course, I'm only one of the backers."

Christmas moved forward swiftly, a curiously unreal Christmas of inordinately warm weather, oranges on the fruit trees, and incongruous bright colored lights, woven through palms. Presents began to arrive. From Alkire her favorite lipstick, fitted into a special case of gold and sapphires, accompanied by a sarcastic note. "This is for the mouth that wants to bite off more than it can chew!"

Scott Hamilton came that same day, bringing her an Imperial Chinese jacket of metallic brocade. While she exclaimed over it, he just watched her, saying nothing. When finally she lifted her gaze and flung it's green transparency directly into his, he glanced away. Ylena said curiously, "How did you happen to get away from Tish?"

"She has a cold—thank heaven. Come with me to the car. I have something to show you."

It was Carlyle's saddle. Beautifully carved, agleam with silver, Ylena rubbed it's polished surface and the tears flew into her eyes. "Oh, Scott—oh, Scott, it's magnificent!"

"I'll take care of it for her up at the ranch."

They went back into the shop and talked for quite some time, a purely impersonal conversation, rather stilted even, a fact Ylena regretted. Why must her love for Tate control every situation, making it unnatural? Suddenly she found herself wanting to shake him physically, and force him from his almost gloomy formality. She missed the rather petting ridicule he always had tossed her way. Instead, she made some very commonplace remark and okayed a check that came from Theodore Vincent. As Ylena recognized the writing, she turned white with fear.

"It's from Theodore," she told Scott, "and I don't think I like it."

"Let's have a look!" Her guest's fingers soon had the package opened. It was an impressively jeweled wrist watch. "You can take a week off some time and count the diamonds."

Ylena shuddered. "I don't want to wear it."

"Of course you'll wear it," Scott corrected. "Don't try to figure out why he sent it. Don't even think of Vincent. Just think, 'What a gorgeous watch!' and put it on." He fastened it around her wrist.

She looked up at him, "More psychological cotton wool?"

"That's right." He tapped her smartly on the forehead with his knuckles, a gesture of affection that made her long to weep. Preceding complete absorption in the thing, he questioned tentatively, "I don't suppose you could possibly—how about Christmas dinner at the Northern ranch?"

"Oh, I'm sorry, Scott." She put an appealing hand on his arm. "But I'm—"

"Having Christmas dinner with the Cromwells," he interposed in a toneless voice. "Okay." After a moment's hesitation he said, "Ylena, I want you to forget what I said that night at your ranch about watching you back. I realize you don't love me, that you're crazy about young Cromwell. Just attribute all that raving I did to a conceited cowboy's wild dream."

He took hold of her hands. "You know I want you to be happy. If it takes Tate Cromwell to make you happy, God help you! But I shan't interfere. All the usual love boob about calling on me if you need help holds good. I'll see you around and about," he said, and quickly walked through the throng of holiday shoppers and into the street.

On Christmas eve Tate reached Ylena's apartment just as stars were rocketing through the chill blue-black sky. Dressed for the gala evening ahead, he made a handsome figure.

Ylena said, "Darling, just as Tish says, you are the most handsome man I've ever seen, and now what have you in the big box?"

She reached for the other end of the white satin box Tate was untying and dived into the box. "Oh, Tate!" She sighed with rapture as her hands encountered a short ermine cape and a matching muff. "Oh, Tate!"

She put the cape about the shoulders of her silver lame formal and the little round muff into her hands, then led her to the blue-mirror sliding doors. "You look like a tall glowing Christmas taper and I'm going to take off your lipstick!"

The evening passed in a giddy whirlwind. Christmas Day also. It was a day of family hilarity with an old-fashioned evergreen toy-laden tree, the conventional dinner and guests dropping in for egg-nog.

After the heavy dinner Mr. Cromwell excused himself. "I'm going to have a nap. How you kids keep up is beyond me. Tate strings in at breakfast time and then—"

his voice died out into the noticeable quiet that had taken possession of the room. "Well," he demanded in embarrassed befuddlement, "have I said something I shouldn't?"

"You tried," Diane murmured. "Tate said, 'Tried, nothing. It was perfect.'"

"It doesn't really matter when you get home," the blond girl said. "Tate had taken her home a little after two. She flashed Tate a comforting smile."

Nevertheless, all during the long warmish winter afternoon, she thought. Where was he? Then she thought, out of all my friends only Scott remembered Carlyle. Again: Where was Tate? What kind of Christmas is Carlyle having?

Warm, she knew because through some method, Rose had sent her a newspaper picture of Carlyle, playing with two pet turtles on the Miami Beach sands, and then again: Where had Tate gone after he left her?

In the December dusk they had toasted turkey sandwiches and hot coffee, fruit and candies. Ylena began to look forward to bed and a long sleep and, when she decently could, voiced her excuses.

"Not yet," the old man Cromwell boomed. Refreshed from his nap he was in excellent humor. "You have to see the surprise first."

All eyes were upon Ylena as he gave her a large drawing. "Your house"—he announced with bursting pride. "From your father-in-law."

"Oh, it's lovely." She studied the sketch of the house and the quite long arbor that stretched between it and another house. Exactly like it, Ylena noticed with a strange, sinking feeling. She looked up questioningly.

The pleased old man roared forth, "Have to treat all my children alike. The other house is for Percy and Diane."

STARS SAY—

For Monday, August 18

MONDAY's astrological forecast is for a pleasant and intriguing day, with some happy surprises or unusual developments in both the business and private life. This may call for changes in plans and objectives, possibly environs, with travel, but with novel, unique and out-of-the-ordinary routines and plans flourishing.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of the unforeseen and unexpected, with unusual, novel and strange experiences or adventures. This pleasantly affects the private life, but with romance and thrills in the emotional attachments. Keep business well in hand for substantial growth and security.

A child born on this day will be endowed with solid and dependable talents and traits of character as well as trends toward the unique, novel, radical and romantic. It will have an adventurous and thrilling life, a happy and useful one.

Anna M. Fellmeth Weds William E. Nehrenz Jr.

Dr. G. J. Troutman
Officiates At
Ceremony

Repeating her nuptial vows in the same church in which her parents were married 32 years ago, Miss Anna Marie Fellmeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fellmeth of 135 East Union Street, became the bride of Mr. William E. Nehrenz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nehrenz of Columbus. The double ring service was read at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in Trinity Lutheran Church by Dr. G. J. Troutman, uncle of the bride, who had officiated at the wedding of his sister, before the same altar. Miss Anna Schleyer was organist at both weddings.

Tall spikes of peach gladioli in pedestal baskets were on either side of the approach to the candlelight altar, which was banked with Oregon huckleberry and potted ferns.

Organ music by Miss Schleyer included "The Rosary," "Still as the Night" and other familiar selections, with Mr. Carl C. Leist as soloist offering "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning" and "Wedding Hymn."

Following the ceremony by Dr. Troutman, the Rev. George L. Troutman delivered a short wedding sermon.

As the strains of the Mendelssohn "Wedding March" were heard, the ushers, Mr. Gladden Troutman, East Union Street, and Mr. Paul Jenyk, Columbus, led the bride party down the aisle to the chancel where the bridegroom and best man, Mr. Ralph T. Edington, Columbus, waited the coming of the bride.

Miss Esther L. Hedges of Amanda, groomed in peach net over matching taffeta, was maid of honor. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of orchid asters, and wore matching flowers in her hair.

Ruth Troutman served as flower girl, her lavender organly floor-length frock being trimmed with dainty trails of lace. She carried pink rose buds in a small white basket.

George Emerson Troutman, in black eton suit with white satin blouse, carried the two rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride's wedding gown of white marquisette was beautifully fashioned with tucks and inserts of exquisite lace. Her double finger-tip veil fell from a tight cap of matching bridal illusion with a lace halo. Blossoms of stephanotis on white ribbons showered from the single lavender orchid on her white prayer book.

A wedding reception for about 40 guests was held at the Fellmeth home following the ceremony, the bride's mother receiving in a lovely gown of blue lace with white accessories.

Tall baskets of summer flowers were before the fire place in the living room. Double-branch candelabra were on either end of the buffet in the dining room.

Miss Gertrude Siebert of Butler, Pa., poured, the bride's table being artistically arranged with the wedding cake as a centerpiece. Candles and flowers completed the decorations.

Mrs. George Troutman, Mrs. Gladden Troutman and Miss Mary Ebert of Circleville served as hostesses.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Troutman, the Misses Gertrude and Emma Siebert and Mrs. James E. Madge of Butler, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Balmor of Baltimore, O.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended Capital University, where Mr. Nehrenz is now preparing for the ministry. The former Miss Fellmeth is a member of Kappa Sigma Theta sorority and the Masquers. Mr. Nehrenz is a life scout, member of Kappa Alpha Pi fraternity and a member of the Columbus W. M. C. A., being desk clerk at the Columbus branch.

When they return after a wedding trip through the East, they will establish their home at 1614 East Rich Street, Columbus.

Wedding Announced
Mrs. George W. Snider of 516 South Court Street announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances Marian, of Columbus to Mr. Sam Adelbert Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert R. Keller of 59 West Dunedin Road, Columbus. The quiet ceremony was performed Saturday afternoon in the rectory of Holy Name Church.

The Rev. Fr. Donahy read the service in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Bertha Snider, sister of the bride, and Mr. Wilson Keller, brother of the bridegroom, were the only attendants.

Siniff-Harrison Marriage
The marriage of Miss Ora Mae Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Harrison of 524 East Franklin Street, and Mr. Robert Lee Siniff of Ashland, O., is announced by the bride's parents, the ceremony taking place Saturday at 10:30 a. m. in the United Brethren parsonage, East Main Street.

The Rev. A. N. Gruesser read the single ring service in the presence of Mrs. Harrison, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Gruesser.

A vantage of pink tube roses complemented the frock of powder blue worn by the bride for her wedding.

The couple left Sunday for Ashland, where the bridegroom is employed in a foundry.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Siniff will reside at 102 East Washington Street, Ashland.

Mr. Hedges Honored
J. R. Hedges of Ashville was honored Saturday at a buffet supper at his home, the affair marking his seventieth birthday anniversary.

Grange Diamond Jubilee Celebration Is Observed
Pickaway County celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of grange and the finals of the grange white butter cake contest were observed at the meeting of Pomona Grange, Saturday, at Scioto Grange, Commercial Point School. All of the granges of the county participated in both events. More than 200 were present for the occasion.

The Diamond Jubilee celebration was held during the afternoon lecture hour with an interesting and colorfully dramatic pageant presented by the grangers. Mrs. S. E. Beers of Scioto Grange presented "A History of Grange" for the opening number of the program, which was arranged in eight interesting episodes.

The first episode was a "Prologue" by Washington Grange with Miss Ethyl May, lecturer, as reader; the second and third episodes, "The Indians and Agriculture" and "The Pioneer and Agriculture", Logan Elm Grange, Mrs. Charles Mowery, reader; fourth episode, "The Grange Comes to Ohio", Scioto Valley Grange, Paul Peters, reader; fifth episode, "The Grange Lecturers' Program of Education", Nebraska Grange, Wilona Peters, reader; sixth episode, "Grange Laws and How Grange Helps in Legislation", Star Grange, Mrs. Herman Porter, reader; seventh episode, "Our Future Grangers", juveniles of Scioto Grange, with Mrs. Ben Grace as reader; eighth episode, "The Grange Future", Salt Creek Grange, with Mrs. Russell Anderson as reader. The pageant closed with a patriotic drill in which the grangers participating in the pageant took part. Mrs. Elmer Strous conducted the drill.

Mrs. Fred Hudson, Scioto Grange, won first prize in the cake contest; Mrs. Austin Wilson, Logan Elm Grange, second, and Mrs. Harry Speakman, Scioto Valley Grange, third. Mrs. Weatherly, Fairfield County, served as judge. Mrs. Fred Hudson will compete in the coming State Grange contest. Homer Reber, Pomona master, conducted the opening business session and received splendid reports of the subordinate and juvenile granges. Large gains in membership were reported.

After the excellent noon luncheon served by Scioto Grange, a class of candidates was obligated in the fifth degree. The class included James R. Reichelderfer, Billy Rihl, Herbert Peelle, Wayne Cryder, Frederick DeLong, Judson J. Beougher, Donna Beougher, Ethel Clay and Henry C. Clay of Salt Creek Valley Grange. Pomona officers were in charge of the work.

The next quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange will be in November with Logan Elm Grange as host.

Bob Feller's Chance To Win 30 Games Is Gone

By Gerald Healey
CLEVELAND, Aug. 18—Bob Feller has missed the boat. Meaning that he isn't going to pitch himself 30 victories this season as was fairly evident on July 18.

On that rainy day he beat the New York Yankees in eight innings, 2 to 1, for his 19th win. Since then he has lost six games while winning only one for a record today of 20 and 10.

There isn't much chance of Bob striding to the mound in any more than 10 or 11 games the rest of the way, unless he does some relief pitching, and it's reasonable to assume that the rapid young Iowan won't win them all, especially with a bunch of .200 hitting team mates trying to blast the opposition.

Naturally, Bob being the sort of guy he is, he isn't complaining about overwork, although he could, and get an audience. In one week Feller pitched a 13-inning game, a nine-inning game and did two relief stints. In four weeks he appeared 10 times, mostly in starting roles.

All this with the Tribe going no place as far as the American League pennant is concerned.

Realizing that Bob has been earning his $40,000 the hard way, Manager Peckinpaugh apparently has relented, for he intends using a couple of rookies as starting pitchers to see what they can do. Steve Gromek, young right hander obtained from the club's Flint, Mich., farm, may start tonight's game in Cleveland against the Washington Senators.

Another starting possibility is Chuck Embree, a Wilkes-Barre farm product.

With this relief in sight there is a distinct possibility that Feller may not even attain last year's mark of 27 victories. To do that he'll have to fashion himself seven somewhere along the line between now and the close of league activity.

And, unless the Indians snap out of their batting slump, there isn't much hope of Bob even doing that. He's getting to the point now where he needs more runs to work on than he used to. And the Tribesmen aren't supplying them.

Well, it was a good try anyway, and it looked mighty like 30 for the youngster back in July. But this is August.

ANOTHER JOUST OF TRACK STARS IN MAKING NOW

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—The stage was being set today at Washington Park for another duel between Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention and Whirlaway, this time in the thirty-first running of the $40,000 added American Derby next Saturday.

Veterinarians are giving Attention's filled knee the closest observation and on their expert opinion in the next two days will rest the decision whether Trainer Max Hirsch will bring the rangy son of Equipoise to Chicago for another crack at the Calumet Farm's three-year-old champion.

Attention's career of the few victories charged against Whirlaway when he beat "little red" in the Arlington classic, so if his injury yields to treatment and the filling disappears he may be given a ticket to Chicago with King Ranch's Dispose, also trained by Hirsch and an expected starter in the American Derby.

If the Corning colt should start as an entry with Dispose, and with Wilmac Farm's Bushwacker already on the grounds ready to give his more distinguished rivals a tough argument, the American Derby should shape up as one of the outstanding three-year-old events of the year from the standpoint of importance.

REDS SPLIT, ENDING THEIR LONGEST WINNING STREAK

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18—With their longest winning streak of the year snapped at six games by an even break yesterday with the Chicago Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds opened a road tour at Philadelphia with a twin bill today with the hope of starting a new streak at the expense of the last-placers.

Whitey Moore and Junior Thompson, who have won only four games between them to date, will go to the mound for the Reds. The Fultons plan on sending Beck and Podgajny to the hill.

The Reds got their eighth straight win at home yesterday in the first game by breaking a 2-2 tie with a four-run rally in the lucky seventh to mark up a 6 to 3 win. Bucky Walters scattered 13 bingles to mark up his 15th victory against 10 losses.

The Cubs took the nightcap, 4 to 2, aided by three Red errors.

SNEAD COLLECTS $1,200, COPPING ROCHESTER FRAY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 18—Slammin' Sammy Snead, the West Virginia shotmaker who won the Canadian Open tournament last week, today held additional laurels in his triumph at Rochester in the Times Union open.

Snead fashioned a 73-67-140 in the final round yesterday for a tournament total of 277, which was seven strokes better than Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa.

Hogan finished second with a 284 over the Oak Hill Country Club course and Craig Wood, Masters and National Open champion, finished third with a 287 after slipping off his game in the Sunday round.

Fourth place was jointly held by Denny Shute, Chicago, and Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., who carded 288's.

Their top finish paid Snead $1,200, Hogan $750 and Wood $550.

SHERIFF DECLARES GAMBLERS MUST STAY OUT OF PICKAWAY AREA

MANY FRANKLIN COUNTIANS BUSY IN CENTRAL OHIO

Radcliff And Deputies Keep Watch To Prevent Any Houses Opening

NUMBERS SALE GOES ON

Pin-Ball Devices And Slots Cleared Away, States Local Official

A report from Columbus Monday that the recent grand jury investigation of gambling in Columbus and Franklin County had driven gambling interests into neighboring counties and that the "south was open for development" brought an emphatic denial from Sheriff Charles Radcliff that any of the Columbus gamblers had moved into Pickaway County.

"There is no gambling going on in the county and we intend to see that there is none in the future," Sheriff Radcliff said.

Reports from Columbus did not specifically state that gambling interests had moved into Pickaway County. The three counties specifically named were Licking, Delaware and Madison.

A raid on several county establishments early this spring by sheriff's officers cleaned the county of what pin-ball and slot machines remained in the county, and Sheriff Radcliff said Monday that he knew of no wholesale gambling going on.

"Writing" Continues

The Franklin County investigation has brought little change in the sale of numbers in Circleville and numbers writers have continued to make their regular rounds as usual. Although Circleville numbers interests have been arrested in Columbus, they have operated unmolested in Circleville with several number writers here posting $50 bonds each month on gambling charges.

Closing race horse bookies in Columbus and in Washington C. H. has brought a flood of gamblers to a Circleville bookie, however, it is reported.

Reported to be booming as a result of the Franklin County pressure are the Madison Club in West Jefferson, Madison County and the White House Club in Delaware County.

JOHN E. VANSKOY DIES AT 62 IN GREEN TOWNSHIP

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Albaugh Co. Chapel, the Rev. W. M. Ramsey officiating, for John Elwood Vanscoy, 62, who died Sunday at 2:30 a. m. at his home in Green Township, Ross County. Complications after a year's illness caused death.

He was born in Ross County September 18, 1878, a son of George W. and Sarah Prior Vanscoy. Mr. Vanscoy married Louise Heffner in Circleville on March 3, 1901. His widow, his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ross, of Circleville; two half-sisters, Mrs. M. E. Carothers of Circleville and Mrs. H. E. Maupin of Columbus, and a half brother, O. C. Ross of Waverly, survive.

He was a member of the Circleville Calvary Evangelical Church. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

STATE AND 88 COUNTIES TO SETTLE DEBT ISSUES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—The state and the 88 counties will begin a three-year task of settling their debts to each other when a new law goes into effect.

Since 1934 Ohio has not reimbursed the counties for costs of prosecution and transportation of criminals; costs which now total nearly $850,000. Even before that, many counties were delinquent in their payments to the state for the care of insane patients.

The state will owe some counties and some counties will owe the state. Finance department experts believe it will take three years to settle matters.

In a cemetery in Charlotte, N. C., an epitaph reads: "Her breach in the social circle will long be severely missed."

U. S. WARNS JAPAN

The stiff warning Under Secretary of State Welles gave the Japanese Ambassador, that the U. S. A. was ready to fight if necessary, came only after a long and patient series of conferences extending back to last May.

The most important of these was a confidential session in the White House of the President himself, Japanese Ambassador Admiral Nomura, Secretary Hull, and Under Secretary Welles. In previous sessions Admiral Nomura and the State Department had discussed various plans for a cooperative program in the Orient.

The main concession which the United States demanded was that Japan renounce the declaration of last April, made in Berlin by Foreign Minister Matsuoaka and Hitler, which firmly sealed Japan into the Axis.

In return Japan demanded that the United States stop shipping war materials to China. Japan wanted definite guarantees to this effect.

Such guarantees, of course, meant that the United States would completely abandon its program of aiding the democracies, and leave in the lurch the one democracy which has battled longer and more persistently even than Great Britain—China. The Administration was not quite prepared to do this.

The negotiations broke down, however, not so much on this point but over doubt whether Admiral Nomura really was able to deliver for the military clique which now runs the government in Tokyo. Also Secretary Hull became ill about that time and left Washington for two months.

Conversations were resumed later and continued until very recently.

But in the interim the Japanese cabinet had become more militaristic than in May and June; so in these later conversations, the State Department coupled a very stiff warning with the olive branch. In fact, the warning was probably emphasized more than the olive branch.

MASS MEETING TO START AT 8

Persons Opposed To Camp In Pickaway-Ross Area Gather This Evening

Many Pickaway Countians who own or are interested in land in the southwestern part of the county are expecting to attend a mass meeting Monday at 8 p. m. at Mount City Park, near Chillicothe, at which time a concerted effort will be made to prevent selection of a Pickaway-Ross County district for a new Army cantonment.

The meeting was decided on last Friday evening after it was announced earlier in the week that the Ross County Democratic executive committee was sponsoring a campaign that it has hoped would bring the camp to the district.

Farm leaders of the two counties hope that Monday's meeting will be a large one, all persons having an interest in the district and the community's welfare being urged to participate.

350 PERSONS AT VFW'S OPENING OF CLUB ROOMS

About 350 persons, including high ranking officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the VFW Auxiliary, attended the grand opening of Post 3331, VFW Sunday held at its new club rooms, North Court Street.

Among the officers present were State Commander Lee Kufus of Circleville, Chief of Staff George Feathers of Springfield and Service Officer Robert Givens of Dayton.

Auxiliary officers at the opening were Mrs. Alice Wolf, Columbus, state president; Mrs. Esther Feathers, Springfield, District 3 president; Mrs. Marian Hopkins, Akron, senior vice president.

Representatives from VFW posts in Toledo, Columbus, Cleveland, Akron, Springfield and Chillicothe were present.

MARTHA JANE STOLLARD 83, DIES IN TARTLTON

Miss Martha Jane Stollard, 83, a former resident of Circleville, died of complications Saturday at 10 p. m. at her home in Tartlton. She was a native of Pickaway Township, a daughter of Martin L. and Malinda Kinser Stollard.

Miss Stollard had spent all of her life in Circleville, Columbus and Tartlton.

Survivors include two brothers, Frank of Columbus and William of Lancaster, and a sister, Mrs. St. Clair Binkley of Lancaster. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Deffenbaugh Chapel, 151 East Main Street, the Rev. S. N. Root officiating. Burial will be in Tartlton Cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home where friends may call Monday evening and Tuesday until the hour of services.

COUNTY MAN DIES

Funeral services were conducted Monday for Fred Eckenkamp, resident of Robtown community, who died last Thursday.

BARRYMORE RETURNS

Lionel Barrymore, who has shied away from radio appearances except for his annual Christmas performance as Scrooge, makes his fourth appearance this summer with brother John on the Rudy Vallee program this Thursday, at 9 p. m. On this occasion, the Barrymore boys will forsake their customary roles as actors to take on the roles of real estate business men in a comedy sketch titled "Barrymore's Model Homes, Inc."

DINAH SHORE BACK

Dinah Shore, songstress, has been signed for the 1941-42 Eddie Cantor program which returns to the air September 3 at its same Wednesday evening hour. Dinah has already returned to New York, cutting short what was to be an extensive vaudeville tour, in order to participate in preliminary script conferences and rehearsals.

AT ARMY MANEUVERS

Members of the WLW staff who will cover the September Army Games in Louisiana, largest peacetime maneuvers in history, together with other radio men, correspondents and photographers, will be subject to capture as prisoners of war, the U. S. Army has announced.

The broadcasters, who will leave Cincinnati September 6, have been informed that the prisoner-of-war stipulation is part of the Army's goal of maximum duplication of war conditions in the unprecedentedly broad military operations.

RADIO BRIEFS

John P. Medbury, Hollywood humorist, who at one time was a scripter for Burns and Allen, has been signed to write the adventures of Capt. Flagg and Sergeant Quirt in the new "What Price Glory" series which starts next month.

When Keenan Wynn opens on Broadway in "The Great White-Wash," the casts of the various radio shows in which he appears will be on hand to applaud his efforts. Keenan is one of the most popular actors in radio among his co-workers.

Rumor says that Andy Devine, the gravel-voiced comedian, will join the Al Pearce gang as a regular when those programs resume in the fall.

A new vocalist will be introduced on the "Cugat Rumba Revue" this week. He is Papito Rodriguez, whose remarkable voice will be heard in the selection, "Echo." Papito will be heard in addition to Lina Romay and Carmen Castillo.

Paul Lukas and Boris Karloff have been alternating as guest stars on "Inner Sanctum Mystery" and now there's a possibility that they'll be starred together on one of the forthcoming programs.

THREE UP FOR PAROLE

Three Pickaway Countians now serving time in the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield are eligible for parole hearings October 1. They are James Robinson, convicted December 10, 1940, for burglary and larceny and serving one to 15 years; A. L. Harold, convicted the same date for forgery and under one to 20 year sentence, and Richard Conrad, convicted last December 10 on a statutory charge, and serving one to 20 years.

Pumpkin Show Officials Face Several Problems

Pumpkin Show directors will meet sometime next week to get definite plans for the 1941 Pumpkin Show under way.

Mack Parrett, secretary of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, said Monday that by the first of next week all premium books should be out and distributed and show directors can go ahead with final plans for the show.

WEDDING PERMIT BUSINESS TO BE QUIET FOR WHILE

Probate Court officials expect to see a lull in the number of marriage licenses issued within the next few weeks.

The new marriage law, effective Monday, provides that each person, before applying for a marriage license, must have a physician's certificate showing that he is free from syphilis "in communicable state." The new requirement will raise the marriage license cost from $1 to $10 or $12.

Most of the young couples planning to be married in the near future have secured licenses under the old law. Consequently the probability is that few licenses will be issued in the near future, Probate Court officials believe.

Five licenses were issued Saturday, the last day for the old marriage law. Licenses were issued to Robert Lee Sniff, 21, Ashland, foundry worker, and Ora Mae Harrison, 524 East Franklin Street; John Joseph Williams, 22, Circleville Route 1, farmer, and Betty Jane Bush, Circleville Route 4; Alton Brooks Campbell, 36, Duval, railroad employee, and Nancy Catherine Nance, Ashville; Franklin Gilliam, 24, Ashville Route 2, and Florence Gertrude Eccard, Ashville Route 2, and Melvin George Manbevcs, 20, Circleville Route 3, laborer and Winnie Kathryn Cornwall, Orient Route 2.

VOICE... of the... PEOPLE

August 18, 1941

To The Editor:

In the case of Mr. Ralph Edward Dunkel permit me to make these statements. First, his classification in the draft is not 1-A. He was given 1-A at first, but on appeal that was changed to 1-A-O, which would place him in noncombatant service. Second, he is not willing, and has not been willing to accept noncombatant service, but is unalterably opposed to any part in human slaughter, even by digging trenches for the man with the rifle.

Further, it does not seem quite fair to call him a "self-styled conscientious objector". He is a genuine conscientious objector, or there are none. Having known Mr. Dunkel for nearly twelve years, I am sure he would not claim convictions which he does not hold, and would scorn evasion by subterfuge. His objections, too, are not of recent origin. More than four years ago my son roomed with him a whole school year while attending the O. S. U. Mr. Dunkel held the same ideas about war then as now, and often expressed the same convictions and purposes. Our Congress passed an Act providing that conscientious objectors might work in a non-military camp without pay and costing the objector about thirty five dollars a month. This is what Mr. Dunkel desires. For whom was the Act intended, if not for such as he?

Hitler maintains that the individual has no inherent rights. The State is all. Denying to a small minority their right to convictions leans too far Nazi way.

This is written without Mr. Dunkel's knowledge or consent.

FIRE FATAL TO SIX CHILDREN

Punxsutawney, Pa., Residence Burns To Ground; Parents, Two Others Escape

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Aug. 18—Six children were burned to death today when fire, starting from an exploding coal stove, razed their farm home within 30 minutes at nearby Grange. Their parents and two other children were rescued. Killed were the following children of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Bush: Leora, 11; Fanny, 10; Kurt, nine; Shirley, seven; Clay, four, and Nancy, five. Survivors were the Bushes, and Elva, 13, and Cloy, four. Elva jumped to safety from a second floor window, while Cloy apparently was thrown out by Leora. He suffered slight burns on his arms and singed hair. The flames quickly ate through the two-story frame building after the coal fire exploded, preventing the rescue of the others, witnesses said. Tokyo's Attitude Becomes Defiant

NIPPONESE SAY NEW MILITARY UNION FORMED

U. S. And Britain Attempting To Send Japan, Russia Into Open War?

"EXHAUSTION" IS SOUGHT

Radio Discloses Chungking Government To Prepare 14 New Air Fields

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—The United States, it was learned today, has made strong representations to Japan over the holding of 100 American private citizens who wish to return home.

This government made the representations through diplomatic channels after it was notified by the Japanese government that the American citizens would not be permitted to board the American liner, President Coolidge, which the State Department planned to send to a Nippon port to pick them up. It is hoped in official quarters in Washington, however, that the incident will not become a serious one.

TOKYO, Aug. 18—America and Britain, the newspaper Miyako charged today, are maneuvering to bring Japan and the Soviets into open warfare in order to frustrate Japanese expansion. Domei, the official Japanese news agency, added to the anti-American press campaign the comment that Nipponese newspapers are showing an increasing tendency to regard the Anglo-American war aims declaration as "mere camouflage" for a veritable military alliance among the United States, Britain, and Russia.

The United States and Britain, Miyako Shimibun charged, "really desire the exhaustion of Germany, Japan, and even the Soviet Union through a war of attrition."

"They embrace the unholy design of checking Japan's southward advance by pitting the Soviets against Japan in open hostilities."

Other sections of the press published the conviction that positive measures against Japan already have been agreed on by Washington, London and Moscow.

(A Tokyo broadcast picked up by CBS in New York asserted that the Chungking government is preparing to build 14 air fields in four provinces of China for the use of the United States, Britain, and Russia.)

As a result of this view, Nippon adopted a more defiant attitude, Captain Hideo Hiraide, spokesman for the navy, asserted that an economic war already is being waged between the United States and Japan.

HALF INCH RAIN AIDS DISTRICT; FALL CONTINUES

More than half an inch of rain came to Circleville Monday to help thirsty corn fields and meadows. Official measurement at noon was .63 inches, the first good rain this month.

Agricultural Agent F. K. Blair said the added moisture would help late corn, meadows and pastures. Much of the early corn already has ripened and some even has been cut and consequently will not be helped by the rain, the county agent said. The dry weather has brought most serious damage to crops in eastern and southern sections of the county.

The weather man said the rain would continue Tuesday, with temperatures slightly warmer. Official low reading in Circleville Monday morning was 58 degrees. High Sunday was 79.

President Finds Several Big Problems Awaiting As He Resumes Duties

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Roosevelt advised congressional leaders today that additional large lend-lease appropriations would be necessary as he reported to them on his dramatic high seas meeting with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The budget bureau is now engaged in a study of requirements for further British aid. The congressional group which was closeted with the President for an hour and a half were told that they could expect a communication within a matter of weeks — presumably after the House and Senate resume full-time operations in mid-September.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Congressional leaders were called to the White House today by President Roosevelt to receive a report on the chief executive's momentous high seas conference with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the British war command.

In turn, the President is expected to inquire into the temper of Congress, both Houses of which during his absence made arrangements to take what amounts to a month's recess, leaving urgently requested defense legislation hanging in mid-air.

The President returned to his desk confronted with a number of problems of the first water, both international and domestic. During the day decisions are anticipated on:

1. The course this government will pursue to get over 100 Americans, held as virtual hostages, out of Japan;

2. The question of federal seizure of the Kearny, N. J., yard of Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, whose president, L. H. Korndorff, has rejected recommendations of the National Defense Mediation Board in the company's dispute with shipworkers.

Leaders Summoned Vice-president Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormack were called in to hear about the dramatic meeting with Churchill which resulted in a complete understanding on necessary steps to bring about "final destruction of the Nazi tyranny."

Speaker Rayburn was unable to be present because of a speaking engagement in Cincinnati. Mr. Roosevelt has not yet aired his views on the congressional decision to take a month off. Some of his aides recalled that last summer when the President wanted Congress to adjourn, the legislators decided in view of the national emergency it was their duty to stand constantly by. At that time, Mr. Roosevelt had said he wanted no more immediate legislation. Today, White House aides point out, there is a great amount of legislative assistance desired by the President.

In the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Roosevelt conferred Sunday with Secretary of State Hull immediately following return from his cruise. The Japanese crisis unquestionably was a foremost problem of debate, as was future attitude of the U. S. government (Continued on Page Two)

RAVENNA SHELL LOADING PLANT OPERATING NOW

RAVENNA, O., Aug. 18—Although it has been in partial operation for several days, the $46,000,000 artillery shell loading plant at Wayland, largest of its kind in the world, officially opened today.

The Atlas Powder Co., of Wilmington, Del., took over direction of the plant, which covers 21,000 acres of farm land. Construction has been under way for 10 months, during which there have been three strikes of carpenters and laborers. The job of housing 15,000 construction workers presented another problem.

There will be no public celebration of the opening as Lieut. Col. R. S. Chavin, construction, quartermaster and commanding officer, was anxious to get full production started immediately.

Four shifts will be assigned to turning out 75-millimeter super-charged rounds for use in field artillery guns. One shift is working now, while the other shifts will start when their training period is over.

The arsenal eventually will employ 9,000, half of them women. When in full production, the plant will load 75, 150 and 155-millimeter ammunition, anti-aircraft shells and airplane bombs weighing from 20 to 200 pounds.

FIERCE RUSSIAN FIGHTING HALTS GERMAN DRIVES

Moscow Claims All Of Reich Armies Being Slowed Down Over Long Front

TWO BASES SURRENDERED

New Soviet Army Ready To Defend Oil Pipe Lines In Batum, Baku Zone

MOSCOW, Aug. 18—Russian military authorities today asserted that Germany's drive in the Ukraine appears to be slowing down due to fierce Russian resistance, while the Soviets are counter-attacking on the Central Front and holding their own in the north.

In an unsuccessful drive on the city of "K"—not identified further—the Germans lost 20,000 men killed or wounded, the Soviet newspaper Red Star reported.

The Red army, however, admitted evacuation of Nikolaev, major Soviet naval base on the Black Sea, and Krivoy Rog, iron and steel center in the Ukraine. But before moving out of Nikolaev, an official bulletin said, all the dockyards where a large portion of Russian shipbuilding has been conducted, were blown up and the port in general rendered useless to the Nazis.

"Soviet troops continue fierce fighting along the entire front," today's early bulletin, covering activity of Sunday, said.

"The Germans are pressing desperately on the Southern and Northern Fronts. In the center Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's forces are checking the German advance and even counter-attacking in individual sectors."

Russian submarines were credited with sinking two large Romanian transports in the Black Sea.

Moscow Defended

A few German air raiders attempted to reach Moscow during the night, but official statements said the formations were dispersed and prevented from bombing the capital.

Official announcements did not state that the German drive in the Ukraine has been stemmed, but semi-official declarations said the German push has "lost some of its vigor."

Russian quarters predicted that the eastern Ukraine would develop into "another Smolensk" — the G. M. might make the area, but only at the cost of losses badly crippling the Reich's war effort.

Even now, said the Russians, the Germans are "sustaining heavy losses in man-power."

In fighting near the town of "M," said a government announcement, more than 5,000 German warriors were slain. Residents of "M" said the Germans forced practically everybody in the town to dig common graves for the slain Germans, "but even this proved insufficient."

VEGETABLE TRUCK GOES IN DITCH NORTH OF CITY

A tractor-trailer unit loaded with vegetables lay on its side in the ditch 4 1/2 miles north of Circleville on Route 23 Monday where it skidded and went out of control about 8:30 Monday morning.

Neither the driver of the truck, Paul Pullins, Bidwell, nor his companion, Morris McKean, Gallipolis, was injured. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver was investigating officer. Pullins told Deputy Weaver that he had pulled out of his lane of traffic to go around a car ahead of him, and seeing a car coming was forced to pull back into his own lane. One of the brakes on the truck grabbed when he tried to slow down, sending the truck into the ditch where it overturned.

The truck is owned by the Evans Grocery Company, 700 First Avenue, Gallipolis. It was en route to Gallipolis when the accident happened. (Continued on Page Two)

LONDON—Air Ministry officials discounted theories of sabotage in the crashes of two trans-Atlantic ferry planes in which 44 persons including Americans, were killed, the Daily Herald said today. Instead, it now is believed that both planes were overloaded with gasoline for the westbound trips. The 22 victims of the second disaster will be buried in a common grave tomorrow.

BERLIN—The German government believes that Iran is willing to defend its sovereignty, neutrality and integrity despite the increased pressure brought to bear by Britain and Russia, a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman declared today.

in, the union's call for the assembling of the 10,000 members of 28 New Jersey unions for mass picketing at the plant at 11 this morning was not rescinded. Police, who have called out reserves, issued radio warnings to the general public to keep away from the shipyards. Only unionists will be allowed to approach.

The picketing demonstration by the CIO has been planned, according to union officials, as a defiant gesture in reply to Albert W. Hawka, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who called the strikers "unpatriotic" in a statement last week.

Order to Take Over Big Shipyard Up to F. D. R.

KEARNY, N. J., Aug. 18—Convinced that the federal government will take over operation of the strikebound Kearny plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, leaders of the CIO's Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers today ordered the 17,000 workers to hold themselves in readiness to return to their jobs immediately.

A spokesman for the union, which called the strike at the giant shipyards, second largest on the eastern seaboard, 12 days ago to enforce a closed-shop demand, said word had been received from a CIO observer in Washington that the navy was completing preparations to seize the plant.

(Dispatches from Washington indicated that an executive order to take over the shipyard was on President Roosevelt's desk awaiting action. Four government agencies, the National Mediation Board, the Maritime Commission, the Office of Production Management, and the Navy, all were understood to have recommended the commandeering of the shipyard.) Despite their confidence that the government is about to step

PRESIDENT PUTS NAME ON ACTION TO DEFER MEN 28

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Roosevelt today signed long-awaited legislation providing for mandatory deferment of men over 28 from military service under the Selective Service Act. The law defers all men who became 28 by July 1, 1941, and those who reached that age on any subsequent July 1 while the draft act is in force.

It further provides that all men over 28 now in service be released and placed in reserve status "as soon as practicable" after they request to be discharged.

BIG ARMY TRUCK CONVOY PASSES THROUGH CITY

A United States Army truck, one of a caravan of more than 100 passing through Circleville Monday, skidded as it rounded the corner at Court and Main Streets, the trailer it was pulling crashing into the rear of a parked automobile.

The rear of the automobile, which carried a Indiana license, was damaged, police said, but they did not know the name of the driver.

First of the army trucks passed through Circleville about 8:30 a. m. and the last of them came along almost five hours later, holding Circleville's police force on the streets from early morning until early afternoon.

The trucks left Zanesville Monday morning. They came into Circleville on Route 22 and turned on Route 23 enroute to Chillicothe. They took Route 50 from Chillicothe to Cincinnati.

Officers in advance units told police they were going to Fort Thomas, Ky.

PIERS AND SHIPS CATCH FIRE AS BLAZE SPREADS

Forty Persons Taken To Hospitals; Others Listed Missing

SABOTAGE IS CHARGED

Longshoremen Jump From Steamer To Safety In East River

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—The greatest waterfront fire in years — possibly kindled by the torch of a saboteur — was sweeping piers and ships with destructive fury in Brooklyn's Erie basin this afternoon.

At 12:30 p. m., a short time after the fire broke out 40 persons had been taken to Holy Family and Long Island College Hospitals. Several others were reported missing. Most of the injured had been trapped in barges near the pier where the flames first were sighted.

Scene of the outbreak of the flames was Pier 27, at the foot of Baltic Street, where supplies are loaded for shipment to England and Suez.

Five alarms were turned in, one following the other in rapid succession, as explosions spread the flames with lightning rapidity. Some of the explosions rocked the financial districts of lower Manhattan.

The flames spread and mushroomed through the Cuba line ship Ponuco, which berthed at Pier 27 only yesterday after a voyage from Mexico. Three barges also were swept by flames.

Men Leap To Safety

A dozen longshoremen were trapped on the Ponuco, but saved their lives by diving overboard and swimming out into the East River where police launches picked them up.

Ambulances from nearby hospitals were rushed to the waterfront. Within a few minutes they were making quick round trips to the hospitals with the injured.

Even as the firefighters fought to quench the blaze, police began preparations for an investigation into the possibility of sabotage.

The fire was being fought from land and water. Both New York City and Brooklyn apparatus was in use, the New York fire fighters racing across Brooklyn Bridge. Fireboats also were brought into play, getting as close as possible to the roaring flames.

One report said that 300 longshoremen working at the pier were forced to leap into the water to escape the onrushing blaze.

Many of these were believed to have been picked up by police launches and fireboats. There was a possibility, however, that some who had sought refuge beneath the pier had lost their lives.

Half an hour after the fire started some of the men still were swimming out toward the center of the East River.

The flames were reported spreading to an adjacent pier. Lighters near this pier, laden with oil, were said to have been ignited.

The Ponuco arrived with a mixed cargo, including hemp which burned fiercely. The ship was scheduled to clear for Mexico today with a cargo of oil it was taking aboard when the fire broke out.

VETERANS HEAR SENATOR WARN AGAINST STRIFE

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 18—Warned by U. S. Senator Harold H. Burton of Cleveland that the United States should not "jump" into the present war, Ohio American Legion members continued their four-day convention today with the grand parade tonight highlighting the session.

Nearly 1,000 delegates were in Stambaugh auditorium to hear Burton's reasons why this country should not enter the war at present. "Every day we stay out of the fighting," Burton said, "gives the axis collection of subservient peoples more time to explode from within or turn on one another."

complete the encirclement of Japan." If this encirclement continues, said Capt. Hiraide, "Japan will be driven to make a decision involving her life or death."

The newspaper Hoshi, extremist in policy but often able to voice government opinions, took the lead in warnings against the United States.

"It is regrettable," Hoshi said today, "that the Soviet Union decided to join the Americans and British against the axis."

"Japan's partners, Italy and Germany, will not remain indifferent to increasing collaboration among Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States."

Anticipating that the forthcoming tripartite conference in Moscow may result in a promise by the democracies to send arms and munitions in exchange for Russian raw materials, iron ore, coal, oil and manganese, Hoshi added:

"If the Soviet Union accepts this deal, it will be greatly disappointed, as it is well-known that the United States and Britain are not able to extend aid to others."

Japs Not Responsible

The paper closed with the admonition: "If collaboration brings about any change in the far eastern situation, Japan will not be responsible for any alteration in the current relations with Russia, which up to now have been improving."

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, revealed that new trade negotiations were broken off when the East Indian government rejected demands for large quantities of oil and other raw materials from the islands.

A Domei dispatch from Batavia said that the trade talks are making such smooth progress that "resumption of normal commercial relations is expected."

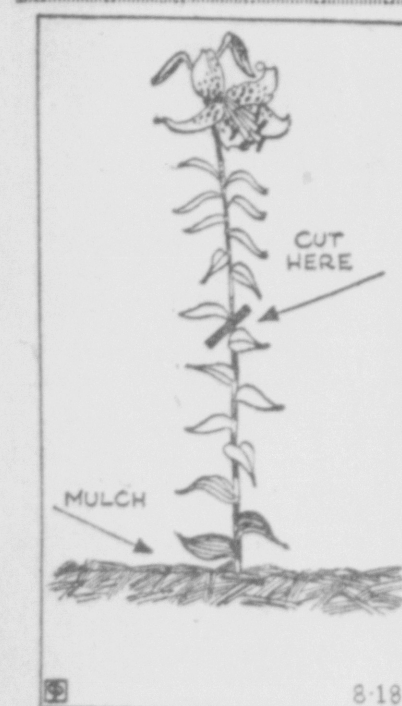

MANVILLE TO WED, THEN ADOPT NEW WIFE'S SON

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Aug. 18—Tommy Manville, playboy heir to the Johns-Manville asbestos fortune, today disclosed that he planned to marry strawberry blonde Beverly Paterno and adopt her four-year-old son as soon as she obtains a divorce from the wealthy Joseph P. Paterno.

The four-times married Manville, who said this marriage would be marked by an inexpensive Niagara Falls honeymoon, said the boy would inherit his entire estate if the adoption goes through. "There is nobody closer to me," he declared.

Pot-grown strawberries can be set out now with assurance of their bearing fruit next season.

Today's Garden-Graph

Special care for lilies

Lilies add beauty and dignity to the garden whether used singly or in masses.

Lilies need special care during the hot, dry spells of summer. The soil in which they grow should be kept cool and slightly moist. If the lily roots are shaded by the foliage of other plants growing nearby or if they have a ground cover growing over them it may prove to be enough protection. When the lilies stand by themselves in full sun, then the soil about them should be well mulched. Granulated peat or even grass clippings will serve.

As shown in the Garden-Graph, when cutting lilies for indoor decoration or when the blooms have faded, leave about half of each stem and its foliage to manufacture food for the bulb. This method of cutting assures large blooms for next year.

If cut back just as the blooms begin to fade, many lilies will produce blooms again later in the season.

COUNCIL FACES CASH PROBLEM AT NEXT CONFAB

Money To Operate Various Departments Needed As Special Levy Fails

PARKING QUESTION UP

Authorization Needed For Service Director To Buy Meters

Main issue which will come before City Council when it meets Wednesday night is that of financing the city departments through the coming year.

With its 1 1/2 mill levy turned down by voters, Council has lost the possibility of obtaining approximately $24,000, $12,000 a year for two years, through taxation. Before the levy came before the voters last Tuesday Council reported that unless the issue won the necessary support of the voters drastic measures to cut city police and fire protection, as well as funds for street lights and Berger Hospital expenses would have to be taken.

Councilmen may plan some sort of expense-saving plan when they meet Wednesday night.

Another issue, one which has been a main topic of discussion in Council for many months, is that of providing the city with a parking program. Although ordinances calling for parallel parking and parking meters have been passed by Council, no authorization has yet been given to the service director to advertise for bids for the purchase of parking meters. An ordinance granting the service director such power was read for the first time at Council's last session and the ordinance will come up for its second reading Wednesday night. Until the ordinance is passed it is not expected that any action to prepare the streets for installation of meters will be taken. Service Director Leonard Morgan has made no announcement of when his department will paint the parallel parking lines in the business area.

CHURCH YOUTHS GATHER TUESDAY AT CAMP GROUND

Young people of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union from all over Ohio will gather at the Mount of Praise Camp Ground Tuesday for their state rally, preparatory to the opening of the 24th annual camp meeting.

Since August 4, Church of Christ officials have been working on the grounds and announced Monday that they were prepared for one of the largest camp meetings crowds they ever had. The young people's rally will open Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. with the Rev. Paul Thomas of Indianapolis delivering the message. The session will be held in the large tabernacle on the camp grounds in order to provide seating space for the young people. The Rev. O. L. Ferguson, pastor of the local church, said Monday he expected about 2,000 young people to attend the opening session, providing the weather is favorable. Rainy weather will check the attendance considerably, he said.

Main part of the camp ground visitors who plan to stay on the grounds and attend all of the church sessions, will start coming into Circleville Wednesday morning and early afternoon. The dormitories on the grounds have been prepared and the camp kitchens filled with supplies ready for the opening day's session, according to the Rev. Ferguson.

The program will start Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. with the Moderator's address delivered by the Rev. E. A. Keaton of Chillicothe. Committees to function during the camp meeting will be selected during the afternoon's business session.

Evangelists will be the Rev. T. M. Anderson, the Rev. John Church, the Rev. Bona Fleming; E. Clay Milby, song evangelist and the Rev. Edna Leonard, children's worker.

FARM LABORER GETS MORE PAY FOR HIS WORK

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—Farm laborers have a distinct advantage in selling their services today as compared with their opportunities for the last 10 years, but the golden age of the hired man apparently ended with the beginning of 1920, when rate of wages, total wage payments, and number of farm laborers employed all were at peaks for the period 1910-40.

Hired men who drew a dollar in wages in 1910 could get $2.25 for the same service in 1919, farmers paid out about $225 in total wages in 1919 for each $100 paid in 1910, and the number of hired men employed in each of the two years was almost identical. From 1919 until the end of 1922, wages of farm labor and total money paid out by farmers for hired help dropped precipitously.

There was a slight upturn in wage rates and in amount of money paid for farm help in the period 1922-29, and the number of hired men employed increased slightly even over the numbers working from 1910 to 1920. The Black Friday for farm help men started at the end of the 1929 work season and continued increasing in gloom until January, 1934.

Agricultural economists at Ohio State University say the hired man who received a dollar in wages in 1910 and $2.25 for the same work in 1919 could sell the services for only 87 cents at the end of 1933. In addition, only 70 men were employed for each 100 working on farms in 1910.

The turning point came in 1934, and farm wages have improved continuously since then, so the hired man at the beginning of 1941 was getting $1.25 for work which he did for $1.00 in 1910, for $2.25 in 1919, and for 87 cents in 1933. Total money paid out by farmers for wages, however, has not kept pace because the number of men employed on farms now is only about 87 percent of the number working on farms through the period 1910-30.

Spurious Tickets For Excursion Cause Riot

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Police today sought the printer whose issuance of counterfeit boat excursion tickets resulted in yesterday's dock riot of 10,000 Negroes in which three women were trampled to death and 75 persons injured.

Killed under the feet of their fellow-picnickers, who rioted on a Hudson River dock at the news that thousands of tickets for their Odd Fellows outing were spurious, were Marion Worrell, 48, Rose Grant, 50, and Martha Murraine, 54.

The excursionists, who were waiting to board the river steamer Delaware for a trip to Poughkeepsie, made a mad rush for the gangplank when the word spread that only 3,200 of the 10,000 could be accommodated aboard the chartered vessel.

Hundreds of women, clinging desperately to small children, were thrown to the rough board plank of the 132nd Street dock and were ground underfoot by the mob. The water was dotted with lunch baskets, shoes, hats, dresses, and luggage.

Police, who had to fire shots in the air in order to restore order, reported that their investigation showed that the "regular" ticket sale had not exceeded the passenger capacity of the boat.

LANCASTER MAN PROBES BLAZES IN CIRCLEVILLE

Investigation of the two fires at the old Riggins poultry house off South Western Avenue continued Monday after Assistant State Fire Marshal W. D. Himes, Lancaster, left the city Saturday after a two-day probe with no report.

Firemen said that Himes may come back Monday to continue his investigation of the two fires, one Friday morning at about 5 o'clock and one Saturday morning at almost exactly the same time, which brought an estimated $200 damage to the frame building.

Both fires started in a refrigerator box which stands in the center of the building.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

20,000 LAWS NOT ENOUGH

It's a common saying that there are too many laws. We have so many now we can't keep track of them and the codes are cluttered with laws that are no longer observed or necessary. Periodically the legislatures have a sort of legal housecleaning when they go through their respective codes and lop off the dead laws. Even so, the total continues to grow.

But there is one phase of the law in which there are too few rather than too many laws. This has to do with Public Notices, also known as Official or Legal Advertising. Such a Notice may have to do with public matters like the letting of a contract for a public improvement. Again, it may concern an individual matter like an application for a license as a security salesman. There are many variations.

It is reliably estimated that in the forty-eight states there are about 20,000 laws dealing with Public Notices in some form or other. While these laws, too, need occasional housecleaning, there are too few rather than too many of them. The reasons are that as life becomes more complex it is important to safeguard the principle of giving Notice where private or public rights are concerned; that new needs arise not covered by existing law; and that frequent efforts are made to weaken or circumvent present provisions.

The underlying principle is almost as old as the Anglo-Saxon peoples. Its importance is such as to call for constant vigilance and strengthening. It is one of the vital democratic processes.

THRIFTY LIVING

ALL the good old copy book proverbs about thrift are given new life as the cost of living rises and the supplies of some recently common commodities dwindle. Shortages of some things can be compensated by use of others. For example, instead of aluminum and stainless steel utensils people can use cast iron, enamel and heat-resistant glass.

But even where substitutes are available, it will be well to heed the advice of government authorities. Watch labels, they say, so that you may know how the quality of materials changes and may plan your purchases accordingly. Take exceptionally good care of what you now have on hand. This applies to the vanishing silk hose, the aluminum stuff that was still in use and in too good condition for donation to the scrap pile. It applies, too, to electrical equipment in the home, to shoes and other clothing, to tools, and automobiles.

Americans have been known abroad as shockingly wasteful. It has been said that a European family could thrive on what an American family throws away. Now things are to be different. We are still blessed with many pleasant and useful possessions, but there are definite limits to their abundance. Here is our opportunity to show that we appreciate our material blessings by taking the best possible care of them.

A WORLD PARTY

RUSSELL W. Davenport, editor of Fortune Magazine, wants an International Party as a means of securing lasting peace. He suggests as its platform:

Belief in the principles of individual liberty.

Economic system yielding security for all and opportunity for advancement.

Adaptation of government to requirements of scientific development.

Creation of an Area of Freedom wherein the peoples of each state acknowledge values indispensable to liberty and responsibilities to the people of other states, with sovereign rights and privileges to be exercised with the approval of all.

This is a fine program. But it looks as if it might take a long time to put it over, and it requires a good deal of defining of terms before most of us can understand just what Mr. Davenport wants.

It is, in all seriousness, important to be thinking about these things. But the first step in the right direction is the one we

AXIS FIRMS BLACKLISTED

WASHINGTON — Confidential cables to the Commerce Department report that Axis business firms in South America are shipping their files and records to Japan.

Last week twelve Japanese vessels put in at five different West Coast Latin American ports ostensibly to pick up Tokyo-bound mail. What they actually loaded was hundreds of crates filled with the papers and books of Axis businessmen who had been forced out by the U. S. blacklist and the freezing of Axis funds.

Hundreds of Axis firms have shut down all over South America, and thousands of Germans and Italians have been flocking to southern Chile, where there is a large German colony. Their files and papers have followed, all painstakingly marked "mail" and sent to Tocopilla and Coquimbo, Chilean ports, or to Mollendo (Peru), Guayaquil (Ecuador), and Buenaventura (Colombia).

By obvious pre-arrangement, the fleet of 12 Japanese ships arrived at these ports shortly after the records turned up. No effort was made to stop shipment, since the contents of the crates were known to authorities.

NOTE—Axis funds also are in flight from Latin America, apparently fearful of freezing action. In one case $5,800,000 in U. S. currency owned by a German agent in Brazil was transferred to Santiago, Chile, then to Buenos Aires, where instructions were received to convert the money into salable commodities.

FISH EGGS

Announcement that 57-year-old, four-times married Senator Reynolds was to wed 20-year-old Evelyn McLean, $80,000-a-year heiress, brought great jubilation to one man in North Carolina. He is Cam Morrison, whom Reynolds nine years ago unseated chiefly on the issue of Morrison's wealthy wife.

Reynolds did not mince words in making this issue. His campaign speech on the subject was an epic of rabble-rousing. After emphasizing Mrs. Morrison's wealth, Reynolds launched into a colorful description of the "lavish" life his opponent led in Washington. He told how Senator Morrison resided in "one of those great swanky hotels", surrounded by luxury and pomp and an army of flunkies.

Then Reynolds hit his climax: "And when he drives up to this palatial hotel in a long sleek car with a uniformed chauffeur, the flunkies run out and unroll a long red carpet so that Cam won't have to put his feet on the pavement. Then his chauffeur jumps out and opens the door.

"And then, my friends, when Cam sits down to supper, do you know what he eats? He eats ka-vee-ar! Yes, sir, ka-vee-ar. And do you know what ka-vee-ar is? It's fish eggs, my friends, fish eggs!"

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

OUR LAST WAR and post-war boom and the following prolonged period of depression were recent enough to be remembered by a great many individuals in high governmental, financial, industrial, commercial and scientifically economic positions. Consequently, with our present defense boom swelling daily bigger and bigger, there are many more references now than there were then to the kind of thing that booms invariably lead to.

The question is: Can a would-be boom be prevented from booming? If not, can it be prevented from popping ultimately? Or, if a pop is inevitable, can such prearrangements be made as to render it harmless?

National Price Fixer Leon Henderson is working overtime to keep today's boom from attaining dangerous proportions. He admits that the infernal things is gaining on him but he's doing his utmost to keep it from getting beyond control utterly. It never has been tried before. Hitherto booms have been considered very gratifying—as providing plenty of profits for capital and oodles of employment for labor and the popular demand has been to "Let 'em flicker." That last experience, though, was a lesson, not far enough back to have been forgotten.

National Production Manager William S. Knudsen doesn't question Leon's system in principle, but he does argue that Leon's operating it so urgently as to threaten considerable unemployment right now, regardless of the future.

Leon's answer is that a modicum of it today is better than a regular catastrophe of it later. How Leon's scheme will work out finally remains to be seen. It's never been tried before.

CARMODY'S PLAN
Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody's of the opinion that we can't prevent a boom while the war lasts or a collapse subsequently.

His notion is to provide a catch-all to scoop in unemployment and provide it with jobs when the explosion does come and scatters it all over the country. The catch-all is to be a $25,000,000,000 six-year program of public improvements, to be started on the minute peace comes and war and defense work simmers down to nearly zero.

Heret Hoover had something of such a plan after the 1914-18 war and it didn't work overly well. A lot of employment was provided but we had our depression anyway. However, Herbert's was an after-the-catastrophe affair. May be it was too late then. John Carmody's idea is anticipatory. He has 32 state directors tinkering with it already. Perhaps it'll serve as the "peace cushion" he calls it. Or perhaps not. Nobody knows yet.

A war boom doesn't pop immediately after the war's over. At the particular juncture civil needs, piled up during the conflict's progress, are rampant, and, for awhile all hands are busy. It was so following the 1914-18 Armistice. It was quite awhile before the panic hit us. I couldn't understand it. Herbert Hoover was commerce secretary then. I interviewed him and asked him what had become of the collapse we ought to be having. "We've entered," he said, "upon a new stage of the world. There aren't going to be any more hard times." And then what—after he was in the White House?

The other day Assistant State Secretary Adolf A. Berle made a cheering talk at a gathering in Washington. After this war, he said, the whole world will have to be rebuilt, and what an era of employment and prosperity that reconstruction period will be!

THAT FRISCO FIRE
Well, I recall the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Gosh! I said everybody. Think of all the employment there'll be in that town, building it over again!

And, for a fact, the place was a hive of industry while re-establishing itself. But a few years later I lived there for a spell, and I never before had seen a city so hard up as that was.

A community doesn't toil like sixty for a matter of generations, piling up wealth for its benefit, then have all its wealth burn up, and fairly bulge with increased prosperity for very long afterward. Henry Ford predicts that "a prosperous world will rise out of the war — if competition remains active." Henry's an optimist, and even he speaks only subjectively.

New Hayfever Remedy Tested Successfully

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A new treatment for hayfever was announced early this summer. The report comes from the Vanderbilt Clinic, New York City, from the Nose and Throat Service, and therefore must be regarded as carrying authority and responsibility. I have had no experience with this treatment, but report it as a suggestion for medical progress.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Since it definitely does no harm, it may be given a trial to establish its value. The treatment consists in the use of from eight to twelve intramuscular injections of a substance known as Coli Metabolism Tissue. This treatment can be begun with the advent of the hayfever season. It requires no preliminary skin test such as necessary for the use of pollen vaccine to determine which pollen is at fault. The first five injections should be administered within five days. The balance may be given at intervals of one or two days. Naturally, this treatment must be in the hands of a physician.

Carefully Worked Out

The theory upon which this treatment is founded does seem to have been very carefully worked out. The coli metabolism material is a product of the growth of the bacillus coli which is found in the human intestines. The pure cultures are incubated, then temporarily transplanted, and after heat has been used to kill the bacilli, diluted with salt solution. After aseptic filtration, the metabolins in the clear fluid are used for the injections. The influence of the substance seems to be upon the sympathetic nervous system which is involved in the manifestations of hayfever.

An explanation may be that some attacks of hayfever may be prevented by a suitable diet, free from salt and spices. Again, elimination of intestinal stasis may have the same effect. Other substances such as calcium have been used in hayfever to allay the irritation of the sympathetic nervous system.

Desensitizing Effect
The report which I am quoting states that the action of this substance is not that of a non-specific protein. The action seems to be upon the sympathetic nervous system and has a desensitizing effect.

In favorable cases, a marked improvement is usually seen after two or three injections. No unfavorable reactions have been observed although in a few cases, the sneezing is made worse and there is a slight increase in temperature for a day or two.

Of seventy-five patients treated, 70% were pronounced cured, 25% were pronounced improved, and in one case the reaction was a complete failure.

The author of this report states: "I know it would be more satisfying to report about these results after the observation of patients over a long period of time. But on the one hand, I think this remedy is so harmless and brings such quick relief that it should be in the hands of the profession as soon as possible."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. P. B.: "What would cause skin blemishes of the following type. These blemishes don't occur under normal conditions. When I get extra excited, angry, or partake of alcoholic drinks, or eat an extra large, hot meal, they occur on my chest and neck in dark red spots; otherwise I am in the best of health."

Answer: These indicate vasomotor instability and you have the causes listed correctly. There is no serious significance to it. If you really want to get rid of them, you should stop getting angry, excited, drinking alcoholic beverages and eating extra large, hot meals.

A. B. M. H.: "Can you please tell me what can be done to get rid of corns?"

Answer: Get rid of the cause first, which is a badly fitting shoe or stocking or both. Any amount of money invested in a comfortable shoe which throws the weight off the corn is worth while. The removal of corns is usually simple with corn plaster and a good corn knife.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Castle of Contentment

By LORENA CARLETON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

FORTUNATELY, Alkire's home and all the extra Christmas trade kept Ylena too busy to delve again into her personal motives. As the tide of holiday shoppers swooped into the shop, increasing day after day, she hired two more helpers. One, a young sister of Francis's, the other a wiry, gray-haired spinster type who appeared from nowhere and directed her employer, "Just call me Barker."

It took Ylena less than one day to realize the brusque Barker knew far more about the business than she herself, not only about everything from trinkets to valuables, but also about the actual decorating. To say nothing of professional gossip!

Quietly she asked on her second day, "Have you thought about putting in a bid for the Ensenada hotel?"

"Heavens no!" Ylena cried. "They haven't even started it."

"All the more reason to get in an early bid."

"I wouldn't know the first thing about decorating a 200-room desert hotel," Ylena insisted, "to say nothing of private cottages and cabins."

Barker shrugged, "It's just doing one room 200 times." She lifted piercing eyes to the timid blond girl. Then she bent again over the desk where she had been working. "You have sketches right here that would be a suitable start."

Ylena glanced down. Pencil in her large scribbled book were scenes she had remembered from Scott Hamilton's ranch.

"They're good!" Barker praised and spurred the girl's ambitions still further. "Wouldn't it make you proud to do the Ensenada hotel, Miss Varanoff?"

The girl's eyes glowed like green coals. Enthusiasm touched her voice with a warm glow. "Of course I'd be proud! That would be an assignment so tremendous as to stop Tate's little jests: 'How's the sewing bee today?—or 'Does Mrs. Whatever win the 10-cent fringe or the 15-cent on her kitchen curtains?' Remarks intended to tease, they actually rankled."

Barker was watching her. "Then tell Mr. Alkire. I happen to know he is putting a great deal of money into it."

Her surprise that Barker possessed so much information was lost in her surprise that Terry Alkire had anything to do with the new hotel, about which all of La Madera was so excited. He hadn't told her, she thought chidingly.

She gave a jerky, determined nod. "I will ask him. I'll ask him tonight."

And she did, while leading him through the Garden of Ally to get his opinion on what she, up to date, had accomplished. He leaned against a door and laughed at her. So little Small-Fry wants to do a famous hotel? A luxurious project that decorators from New York and San Francisco will be bidding on? His features dropped into seriousness. "Who told you I had a part in it?"

"Barker, my new helper."

"Who is she?"

Ylena said puzzledly, "A combination of bloodhound and Indian, with an ear to the ground. She's plenty smart, she knows even more than the skitter-headed boss."

"That's good," Alkire grinned into Ylena's black look. "I'll see what I can do. Of course, I'm only one of the backers."

Christmas moved forward swiftly, a curiously unreal Christmas of inordinately warm weather, oranges on the fruit trees, and incongruous bright colored lights, woven through palms. Presents began to arrive. From Alkire her favorite lipstick, fitted into a special case of gold and sapphires, accompanied by a sarcastic note. "This is for the mouth that wants to bite off more than it can chew!"

Scott Hamilton came that same day, bringing her an Imperial Chinese jacket of metallic brocade. While she exclaimed over it, he just watched her, saying nothing. When finally she lifted her gaze and flung it's green transparency directly into his, he glanced away. Ylena said curiously, "How did you happen to get away from Tish?"

"She has a cold—thank heaven. Come with me to the car. I have something to show you."

It was Carlyle's saddle. Beautifully carved, agate with silver. Ylena rubbed it's polished surface and the tears flew into her eyes. "Oh, Scott—oh, Scott, it's magnificent."

"I'll take care of it for her up at the ranch."

They went back into the shop and talked for quite some time, a purely impersonal conversation, rather stilted even, a fact Ylena regretted. Why must he love for Tate control every situation, making it unnatural? Suddenly she found herself wanting to shake him physically, and force him from his almost gloomy formality. She missed the rather petty ridicule he always had tossed her way. Instead, she made some very commonplace remark and okayed a check that Francis brought her.

While Scott was still there, the package came from Theodore Vincent. As Ylena recognized the writing, she turned white with fear.

"It's from Theodore," she told Scott, "and I don't think I like it."

"Let's have a look!" Her guest's fingers soon had the package opened. It was an impressively jeweled wrist watch. "You can take a week off some time and count the diamonds."

Ylena shuddered. "I don't want to wear it."

"Of course you'll wear it," Scott corrected. "Don't try to figure out why he sent it. Don't even think of Vincent. Just think, 'What a gorgeous watch!' and put it on." He fastened it around her wrist.

She looked up at him. "More psychological cotton wool?"

"That's right." He tapped her smartly on the forehead with his knuckles, a gesture of affection that made her long to weep. Preceding complete absorption in the same knuckles, he questioned tentatively, "I don't suppose you could possibly—how about Christmas dinner at the Northern ranch?"

"Oh, I'm sorry, Scott." She put an appealing hand on his arm. "But I'm—"

"Having Christmas dinner with the Cromwells," he interposed in a toneless voice. "Okay." After a moment's hesitation he said, "Ylena, I want you to forget what I said that night at your ranch about snatching you back. I realize you don't love me, that you're crazy about young Cromwell. Just attribute all that raving I did to a conceited cowboy's wild dream." He took hold of her hands. "You know I want you to be happy. If it takes Tate Cromwell to make you happy, God help you! But I shan't interfere. All the usual love boah about calling on me if you need help holds good! I'll see you around and about," he said, and quickly walked through the throng of holiday shoppers and into the street. On Christmas eve Tate reached Ylena's apartment just as stars were rocketing through the chill blue-black sky. Dressed for the gala evening ahead, he made a handsome figure.

Ylena said, "Darling, just as Tish says, you are the most handsome man I've ever seen, and now what have you in the big box?"

She reached for the other end of the white satin box Tate was untying, and dived into the box. "Oh, Tate!" She sighed with rapture as her hands encountered a short ermine cape and a matching muff. "Oh, Tate!"

He put the cape about the shoulders of her silver lame formal and the little round muff into her hands, then led her to the blue-mirror sliding doors. "You look like a tall glowing Christmas taper and I'm going to take off your lipstick!"

The evening passed in a giddy whirlwind. Christmas Day also. It was a day of family hilarity with an old-fashioned evergreen toy-laden tree, the conventional dinner and guests dropping in for egg-nog.

After the heavy dinner Mr. Cromwell excused himself. "I'm going to have a nap. How you kids keep up is beyond me. Tate strings in at breakfast time and then—" his voice died out into the noticeable quiet that had taken possession of the room. "Well," he demanded in embarrassed befuddlement, "have I said something I shouldn't?"

"You tried," Diane murmured.

Tate said, "Tried, nothing. It was perfect."

"It doesn't really matter when you get home," the blond girl said. Tate had taken her home a little after two. She flashed Tate a comforting smile.

Nevertheless, all during the long warmish winter afternoon, she thought, Where was he? Then she thought, out of all my friends only Scott remembered Carlyle. Again: Where was Tate? What kind of Christmas is Carlyle having? Warm, she knew because through some method, Rose had sent her a newspaper picture of Carlyle, playing with two pet turtles on the Miami Beach sands, and then again: Where had Tate gone after he left her?

In the December dusk they had toasted turkey sandwiches and hot coffee, fruit and candies. Ylena began to look forward to bed and a long sleep and, when she decently could, voiced her excuses.

"Not yet," the old man Cromwell boomed. Refreshed from his nap he was in excellent humor. "You have to see the surprise first."

All eyes were upon Ylena as he gave her a large drawing. "Your house"—he announced with bursting pride. "From your father-in-law."

"Oh, it's lovely." She studied the sketch of the house and the quite long arbor that stretched between it and another house. Exactly like it, Ylena noticed with a strange, sinking feeling. She looked up questioningly.

The pleased old man roared forth, "Have to treat all my children alike. The other house is for Percy and Diane."

STARS SAY—

For Monday, August 18

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a pleasant and intriguing day, with some happy surprises or unusual developments in both the business and private life. This may call for changes in plans and objectives, possibly environs, with travel, but with novel, unique and out-of-the-ordinary routines and plans flourishing.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of the unforeseen and unexpected, with unusual, novel and strange experiences or adventures. This pleasantly affects the private life, but with romance and thrills in the emotional attachments. Keep business well in hand for substantial growth and security.

A child born on this day will be endowed with solid and dependable talents and traits of character as well as trends toward the unique, novel, radical and romantic. It will have an adventurous and thrilling life, a happy and useful one.

Anna M. Fellmeth Weds William E. Nehrenz Jr.

Dr. G. J. Troutman
Officiates At
Ceremony

Repeating her nuptial vows in the same church in which her parents were married 32 years ago, Miss Anna Marie Fellmeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fellmeth of 135 East Union Street, became the bride of Mr. William E. Nehrenz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Nehrenz of Columbus. The double ring service was read at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in Trinity Lutheran Church by Dr. G. J. Troutman, uncle of the bride, who had officiated at the wedding of his sister, before the same altar. Miss Anna Schleyer was organist at both weddings.

Tall spikes of peach gladioli in pedestal baskets were on either side of the approach to the candlelighted altar, which was banked with Oregon huckleberry and potted ferns.

Organ music by Miss Schleyer included "The Rosary," "Still as the Night," and other familiar selections, with Mr. Carl C. Leist as soloist offering "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning," and "Wedding Hymn."

Preceding the ceremony by Dr. Troutman, the Rev. George L. Troutman delivered a short wedding sermon.

As the strains of the Mendelssohn "Wedding March" were heard, the ushers, Mr. Gladden Troutman, East Union Street, and Mr. Paul Jenky, Columbus, led the bride down the aisle to the altar where the bridegroom and best man, Mr. Ralph T. Edington, Columbus, waited the coming of the bride.

Miss Esther L. Hedges of Amanda, groomed in peach net over matching taffeta, was maid of honor. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of orchid asters, and wore matching flowers in her hair.

Ruth Troutman served as flower girl, her lavender organly floor-length frock being trimmed with pink drills of lace. She carried pink rose buds in a small white basket.

George Emerson Troutman, in black tux suit with white satin bowtie, carried the two rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride's wedding gown of white marquisette was beautifully fashioned with tucks and inserts of exquisite lace. Her double finger-tip veil fell from a tight cap of matching bridal illusion with a lace halo. Blossoms of stephanotis on white ribbons shimmered from the single lavender orchid on her white prayer book.

A wedding reception for about 40 guests was held at the Fellmeth home following the ceremony, the bride's mother receiving in a lovely gown of blue lace with white accessories.

Tall baskets of summer flowers were before the fire place in the living room. Double-branch candelabra were on either end of the buffet in the dining room.

Miss Gertrude Siebert of Butler, Pa., poured, the bride's table being artistically arranged with the wedding cake as a centerpiece. Candles and flowers completed the decorations.

Mrs. George Troutman, Mrs. Gladden Troutman and Miss Mary Ebert of Circleville served as hostesses.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Troutman, the Misses Gertrude and Emma Siebert and Mrs. James E. Madge of Butler, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ballmer of Baltimore, O.

Both the bride and bridegroom attended Capital University, where Mr. Nehrenz is now preparing for the ministry. The former Miss Fellmeth is a member of Kappa Sigma Theta sorority and the Masquers. Mr. Nehrenz is a life scout, member of Kappa Alpha Pi fraternity and a member of the Columbus W. M. C. A., being desk clerk at the Columbus branch.

When they return after a wedding trip through the East, they will establish their home at 1614 East Rich Street, Columbus.

Wedding Announced
Mrs. George W. Snider of 816 South Court Street announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances Marian, of Columbus to Mr. Sam Adelbert Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert R. Keller of 59 West Dunedin Road, Columbus. The quiet ceremony was performed Saturday afternoon in the rectory of Holy Name Church.

Siniff-Harrison Marriage

The marriage of Miss Ora Mae Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Harrison of 524 East Franklin Street, and Mr. Robert Lee Siniff of Ashland, O., is announced by the bride's parents, the ceremony taking place Saturday at 10:30 a. m. in the United Brethren parsonage, East Main Street.

The Rev. A. N. Gruesser read the single ring service in the presence of Mrs. Harrison, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Gruesser.

A corsage of pink tube roses complemented the frock of powder blue worn by the bride for her wedding.

The couple left Sunday for Ashland, where the bridegroom is employed in a foundry.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Siniff will reside at 102 East Washington Street, Ashland.

Mr. Hedges Honored

J. R. Hedges of Ashville was honored Saturday at a buffet supper at his home, the affair marking his seventieth birthday anniversary.

About 20 guests were present, including his son and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hedges, his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. George Crites, Mr. and Mrs. Don White of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hedges and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Thorpe of Columbus; Dr. and Mrs. Emerson Ward, Mr. Hedges' son-in-law and daughter, and a few additional guests from Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cameron, his son-in-law and daughter, of Ashville.

Club Luncheon

A noon luncheon and bridge party will be conducted Thursday at 1 p. m. at the Pickaway Country Club, the affair being arranged for the pleasure of the women members of the club and their out-of-town guests. This is the first party of the summer planned for the women.

Reservations for the luncheon should be made by Tuesday evening with Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Harry Heffner, Mrs. John W. Eshelman or Mrs. Charles Gilmore, who are in charge of arrangements.

W. S. C. S.

Twenty-eight members and visitors attended the recent meeting of the W. S. C. S. of Mt. Pleasant Church, Mrs. Roy Rittinger leading the devotional service. Mrs. Rittinger reviewed Psalm 55.

The regular business was transacted and plans made for a bake sale to be Saturday, August 23, at Wallace's Bakery.

Grange Diamond Jubilee Celebration Is Observed

Pickaway County celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of grange and the finals of the grange white butter cake contest were observed at the meeting of Pomona Grange, Saturday, at Scioto Grange, Commercial Point School. All of the granges of the county participated in both events. More than 200 were present for the occasion.

The Diamond Jubilee celebration was held during the afternoon lecture hour with an interesting and colorfully dramatic pageant presented by the grangers. Mrs. S. E. Beers of Scioto Grange presented "A History of Grange" for the opening number of the program, which was arranged in eight interesting episodes.

The first episode was a "Prologue," by Washington Grange with Miss Ethyl May, lecturer, as reader; the second and third episodes, "The Indians and Agriculture" and "The Pioneer and Agriculture," Logan Elm Grange, Mrs. Charles Mowery, reader; fourth episode, "The Grange Comes to Ohio," Scioto Valley Grange, Paul Peters, reader; fifth episode, "The Grange Lecturers' Program of Education," Nebraska Grange, Wilona Peters, reader; sixth episode, "Grange Laws and How Grange Helps in Legislation," Star Grange, Mrs. Herman Porter, reader; seventh episode, "Our Future Grangers," juveniles of Scioto Grange, with Mrs. Ben Grace as reader; eighth episode, "The Grange Future," Salt Creek Grange, with Mrs. Russell Anderson as reader. The pageant closed with a patriotic drill in which the grangers participating in the pageant took part. Mrs. Elmer Strous conducted the drill.

Mrs. Fred Hudson, Scioto Grange, won first prize in the cake contest; Mrs. Austin Wilson, Logan Elm Grange, second, and Mrs. Harry Speakman, Scioto Valley Grange, third. Mrs. Weatherly, Fairfield County, served as judge. Mrs. Fred Hudson will compete in the coming State Grange contest.

Homer Reber, Pomona master, conducted the opening business session and received splendid reports of the subordinate and juvenile granges. Large gains in membership were reported.

After the excellent noon luncheon served by Scioto Grange, a class of candidates was obligated in the fifth degree. The class included James R. Reichelderfer, Billy Rihl, Herbert Peelle, Wayne Cryder, Frederick DeLong, Judson J. Beougher, Donna Beougher, Ethel Clay and Henry C. Clay of Salt Creek Valley Grange. Pomona officers were in charge of the work.

The next quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange will be in November with Logan Elm Grange as host.

Bob Feller's Chance To Win 30 Games Is Gone

By Gerald Healey

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18—Bob Feller has missed the boat. Meaning that he isn't going to pitch himself 30 victories this season as was fairly evident on July 18.

On that rainy day he beat the New York Yankees in eight innings, 2 to 1, for his 19th win. Since then he has lost six games while winning only one for a record today of 20 and 10.

There isn't much chance of Bob striding to the mound in any more than 10 or 11 games the rest of the way, unless he does some relief pitching, and it's reasonable to assume that the rapid young Iowan won't win them all, especially with a bunch of 200 hitting team mates trying to blast the opposition.

Naturally, Bob being the sort of guy he is, he isn't complaining about overwork, although he could, and get an audience. In one week Feller pitched a 13-inning game, a nine-inning game and did two relief stints. In four weeks he appeared 10 times, mostly in starting roles.

All this with the Tribe going no place as far as the American League pennant is concerned.

Realizing that Bob has been earning his $40,000 the hard way, Manager Peckinpaugh apparently has relented, for he intends using a couple of rookies as starting pitchers to see what they can do.

Steve Gromek, young right hander obtained from the club's Flint, Mich., farm, may start tonight's game in Cleveland against the Washington Senators.

Another starting possibility is Chuck Embree, a Wilkes-Barre farm product.

With this relief in sight there is a distinct possibility that Feller may not even attain last year's mark of 27 victories. To do that he'll have to fashion himself seven somewhere along the line between now and the close of league activity.

And, unless the Indians snap out of their batting slump, there isn't much hope of Bob even doing that. He's getting to the point now where he needs more runs to work on than he used to. And the Tribe men aren't supplying them. Well, it was a good try anyway, and it looked mighty like 30 for the youngster back in July. But this is August.

ANOTHER JOUST OF TRACK STARS IN MAKING NOW

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—The stage was being set today at Washington Park for another duel between Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention and Whirlaway, this time in the thirty-first running of the $40,000 added American Derby next Saturday.

Veterinarians are giving Attention's filled knee the closest observation and on their expert opinion in the next two days will rest the decision whether Trainer Max Hirsch will bring the rangy son of Equipoise to Chicago for another crack at the Calumet Farm's three-year-old champion.

Attention scored one of the few victories charged against Whirlaway when he beat "little red" in the Arlington classic, so if his injury yields to treatment and the filling disappears he may be given a ticket to Chicago with King Ranch's Dispose, also trained by Hirsch and an expected starter in the American Derby.

If the Corning colt should start as an entry with Dispose, and with Wilmac Farm's Bushwacker already on the grounds ready to give his more distinguished rivals a tough argument, the American Derby should shape up as one of the outstanding three-year-old events of the year from the standpoint of importance.

DODGER STAR'S PITCHING FEAT NIPPED BY MASI

Boston Catcher's Bingle Comes After 25 Men Are Retired

BROOKLYN TAKES LEAD

Cardinals Split And So Do Reds; Yankees Go On; Cleveland Fails

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—John Whitlow Wyatt was so near and yet so far from baseball immortality today that he admittedly was a sad man.

He tried to smile when he and his Brooklyn teammates rolled back home from Boston, but being deprived of pitching a "perfect" game is not easy to laugh away.

"Guess it just wasn't in the books," he said, "that I should get by that last inning."

"But it sure did nuzzle me to see that hit."

"Oh, well. . ."

And that's about how this 32-year-old Brooklynite must have felt yesterday when Phil Masi of the Braves slashed out a single in the ninth after Wyatt had retired 25 men in a row.

Whit struck out the next batter and forced the third one to pop out, but his chance to pitch the seventh "perfect" game in Major League history was blown to the wind. The last moundman who accomplished the feat was Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox who turned the trick against Detroit April 30, 1922.

The sad-faced native of Chickamauga, Ga., was somewhat alone in his unhappiness, however, because the Dodgers and the borough of Brooklyn were elated today. Wyatt's one-hit performance, which produced a 3 to 0 victory in the last game of a doubleheader at Boston, combined with a 5 to 1 decision over the Braves in the opener, placed the Flatbush flock atop the National League standings again.

Cardinals Divide

The Dodgers displaced the St. Louis Cardinals by one-half a game. The Red Birds having been held to a split by Pittsburgh. Mort Cooper twirled St. Louis to a 7-1 edge in the opener, but Truett Sewell checked Lon Warneke and Co., 8-2 in the nightcap.

More things were happening, meanwhile, in the American League where Cleveland's collapsible Indians were felled into a tie with Boston for third place. The Chicago White Sox trimmed the Tribe 8 to 2 and 4 to 3, and marched over them into second place. Old Teddy Lyons pitched the first game for the Sox who lambasted Bobby Feller for his 10th loss of the season.

The Red Sox shared third place with the Indians through no virtue of their own, Washington tripped the Beantown boys, 6 to 2, behind Sid Hudson's five-hit hurling in the day's lone encounter.

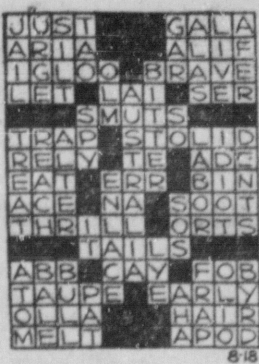

Gordon Clubs

New York's Yankees continued their winning way by pulling a pair of victories out in the ninth inning over Philadelphia. Spurgeon Chandler bested Bill Beckman, 2-1, in a throwing battle through the inaugural and Joe Gordon's two homers, one in the last inning, helped Lefly Gomez to a 4-3 edge in the finale.

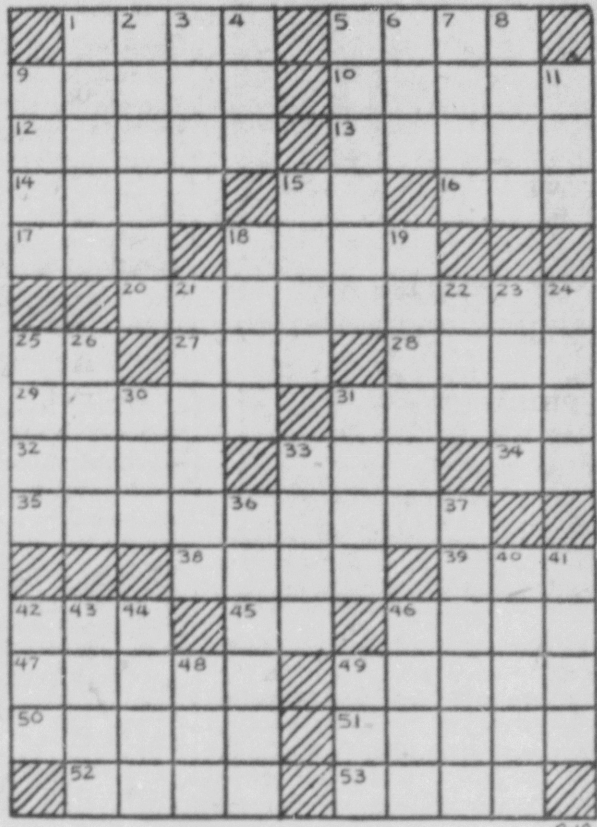

St. Louis' Browns and Detroit split a pair, the Tigers taking the first one, 8 to 1, and the Brownies the last, 6 to 1.

Elsewhere in the National, Chicago and Cincinnati halved their games. Charley Root won his 19th major league victory in the last 4 to 2, after the Reds had captured the first, 6 to 3.

SHERIFF DECLARES GAMBLERS MUST STAY OUT OF PICKAWAY AREA

MANY FRANKLIN COUNTIANS BUSY IN CENTRAL OHIO

Radcliff And Deputies Keep Watch To Prevent Any Houses Opening

NUMBERS SALE GOES ON

Pin-Ball Devices And Slots Cleared Away, States Local Official

A report from Columbus Monday that the recent grand jury investigation of gambling in Columbus and Franklin County had driven gambling interests into neighboring counties and that the "south was open for development" brought an emphatic denial from Sheriff Charles Radcliff that any of the Columbus gamblers had moved into Pickaway County.

"There is no gambling going on in the county and we intend to see that there is none in the future," Sheriff Radcliff said.

Reports from Columbus did not specifically state that gambling interests had moved into Pickaway County. The three counties specifically named were Licking, Delaware and Madison.

A raid on several county establishments early this spring by sheriff's officers cleaned the county of what pin-ball and slot machines remained in the county, and Sheriff Radcliff said Monday that he knew of no wholesale gambling going on.

"Writing" Continues

The Franklin County investigation has brought little change in the sale of numbers in Circleville and numbers writers have continued to make their regular rounds as usual. Although Circleville numbers interests have been arrested in Columbus, they have operated unmolested in Circleville with several number writers here posting $50 bonds each month on gambling charges.

Closing race horse bookies in Columbus and in Washington, C. H. has brought a flood of gamblers to a Circleville bookie, however, it is reported.

Reported now to be booming as a result of the Franklin County pressure are the Madison Club in West Jefferson, Madison County and the White House Club in Delaware County.

JOHN E. VANSKOY DIES AT 62 IN GREEN TOWNSHIP

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m. in the Albaugh Co. Chapel, the Rev. W. M. Ramsey officiating, for John Elwood Vanscoy, 62, who died Sunday at 2:30 a. m. at his home in Green Township, Ross County. Complications after a year's illness caused death.

He was born in Ross County September 18, 1878, a son of George W. and Sarah Prior Vanscoy. Mr. Vanscoy married Louise Heffner in Circleville on March 3, 1901. His widow, his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ross, of Circleville; two half-sisters, Mrs. M. E. Carothers of Circleville and Mrs. H. E. Maupin of Columbus, and a half brother, O. C. Ross of Waverly, survive.

He was a member of the Circleville Calvary Evangelical Church. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

STATE AND 88 COUNTIES TO SETTLE DEBT ISSUES

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—The state and the 88 counties will begin a three-year task of settling their debts to each other when a new law goes into effect.

Since 1934 Ohio has not reimbursed the counties for costs of prosecution and transportation of criminals; costs which now total nearly $850,000. Even before that, many counties were delinquent in their payments to the state for the care of insane patients.

The state will owe some counties and some counties will owe the state. Finance department experts believe it will take three years to settle matters.

In a cemetery in Charlotte, N. C., an epitaph reads: "Her breach in the social circle will long be severely missed."

cherished Senate seat. But with the news of Bob Reynolds' engagement to an heiress, Morrison is all smiles. "From now on," he chuckles, "even I can lick him."

U. S. WARNS JAPAN

The stiff warning Under Secretary of State Welles gave the Japanese Ambassador, that the U. S. A. was ready to fight if necessary, came only after a long and patient series of conferences extending back to last May.

The most important of these was a confidential session in the White House of the President himself, Japanese Ambassador Admiral Nomura, Secretary Hull, and Under Secretary Welles. In previous sessions Admiral Nomura and the State Department had discussed various plans for a cooperative program in the Orient.

The main concession which the United States demanded was that Japan renounce the declaration of last April, made in Berlin by Foreign Minister Matsuoka and Hitler, which firmly sealed Japan into the Axis.

In return Japan demanded that the United States stop shipping war materials to China. Japan wanted definite guarantees to this effect.

Such guarantees, of course, meant that the United States would completely abandon its program of aiding the democracies, and leave in the lurch the one democracy which has battled longer and more persistently even than Great Britain—China. The Administration was not quite prepared to do this.

The negotiations broke down, however, not so much on this point but over doubt whether Admiral Nomura really was able to deliver for the military clique which now runs the government in Tokyo. Also Secretary Hull became ill about that time and left Washington for two months.

Conversations were resumed later and continued until very recently.

But in the interim the Japanese cabinet had become more militaristic than in May and June; so in these later conversations, the State Department coupled a very stiff warning with the olive branch. In fact, the warning was probably emphasized more than the olive branch.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Joe Carr of Tennessee is a good bet to be next national president of the Young Democrats. . . . Supreme Court Justice Bill Douglas now vacationing in the West, pays tribute to Judge Jimmy Alford of Texas as an expert fisherman and boon companion. . . . John F. Fitzgerald, ex-mayor of Boston, heard there was a vacancy on the Maritime Commission and immediately trotted out his son for the job. His son happens to be the brother-in-law of ex-Ambassador Joe Kenedy. Once when Kennedy was chairman of the Maritime Commission (where he made a great record) brother-in-law Fitzgerald decided he wanted a job on the commission. Joe met him at the Union Station, drove him around Washington for an hour in a taxi, then put him on a train back to Boston. That was as near as he got to the job.

PRESSURE DRIVE

The 203-to-202 House vote on the draft extension bill was not surprising in view of the terrific last minute pressure drive against it.

Not since the days of the fake utility telegrams attacking the Holding Company Act has Congress seen anything like it. Who financed this campaign is still a secret which only a congressional investigation can unearth. But the affair had all the earmarks of a carefully organized operation costing plenty of money.

Here are some of the measures used to put the heat on congressmen:

Representative Clare Hoffman, Michigan Republican who has fought most defense measures, sent a mimeographed letter to all his colleagues captioned: "November 3, '42, Will Soon Be Here." The letter warned that unless they voted against the bill "your political hide, which is very near and dear to you, will be tanning on the barn door."

In the middle of the afternoon, when the House was voting on isolationist amendments aimed at scuttling the 18 months extension, messenger boys delivered to every congressional office a long clipping from the letter column of a Washington morning newspaper attacking the legislation. The letter was signed by Frank J. Murphy, president of the National Parents of Selectees, Inc.

During the same afternoon, several congressmen reported to be wavering on the bill received long distance calls from constituents in their districts, demanding that they vote with the isolationists and threatening political reprisal.

Delegations of several thousand women from New York and other eastern cities tried to storm the House with clamors that the bill be killed. This stunt alone must have cost at least $25,000.

NOTE: Hero of the Administration side was Representative Pat Boland, Pa., Democratic Whip, who worked furiously for the bill despite the toughest kind of pressure from certain religious elements.

COUNTY MAN DIES

Funeral services were conducted Monday for Fred Exenkamp, resident of Robtown community, who died last Thursday.

MASS MEETING TO START AT 8

Persons Opposed To Camp In Pickaway-Ross Area Gather This Evening

Many Pickaway Countians who own or are interested in land in the southwestern part of the county are expecting to attend a mass meeting Monday at 8 p. m. at Mount City Park, near Chillicothe, at which time a concerted effort will be made to prevent selection of a Pickaway-Ross County district for a new Army cantonment.

The meeting was decided on last Friday evening after it was announced earlier in the week that the Ross County Democratic executive committee was sponsoring a campaign that it has hoped would bring the camp to the district.

Farm leaders of the two counties hope that Monday's meeting will be a large one, all persons having an interest in the district and the community's welfare being urged to participate.

350 PERSONS AT VFW'S OPENING OF CLUB ROOMS

About 350 persons, including high ranking officials of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the VFW Auxiliary, attended the grand opening of Post 3331, VFW Sunday held at its new club rooms, North Court Street.

Among the officers present were State Commander Lee Kullis of Cleveland, Chief of Staff George Feathers of Springfield and Service Officer Robert Givens of Dayton.

Auxiliary officers at the opening were Mrs. Alice Wolf, Columbus, state president; Mrs. Esther Feathers, Springfield, District 3 president; Mrs. Marian Hopkins, Akron, senior vice president.

Representatives from VFW posts in Toledo, Columbus, Cleveland, Akron, Springfield and Chillicothe were present.

MARTHA JANE STOLLARD 83, DIES IN TARTLTON

Miss Martha Jane Stollard, 83, a former resident of Circleville, died of complications Saturday at 10 p. m. at her home in Tartlton. She was a native of Pickaway Township, a daughter of Martin L. and Malinda Kinser Stollard.

Miss Stollard had spent all of her life in Circleville, Columbus and Tartlton.

Survivors include two brothers, Frank of Columbus and William of Lancaster, and a sister, Mrs. St. Clair Binkley of Lancaster. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Deffenbaugh Chapel, 151 East Main Street, the Rev. S. N. Root officiating. Burial will be in Tartlton Cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home where friends may call Monday evening and Tuesday until the hour of services.

BARRYMORE RETURNS

Lionel Barrymore, who has shied away from radio appearances except for his annual Christmas performance as Scrooge, makes his fourth appearance this summer with brother John on the Rudy Vallee program this Thursday, at 9 p. m. On this occasion, the Barrymore boys will forsake their customary roles as actors to take on the roles of real estate business men in a comedy sketch titled "Barrymore's Model Homes, Inc."

DINAH SHORE BACK

Dinah Shore, songstress, has been signed for the 1941-42 Eddie Cantor program which returns to the air September 3 at its same Wednesday evening hour. Dinah has already returned to New York, cutting short what was to be an extensive vaudeville tour, in order to participate in preliminary script conferences and rehearsals.

AT ARMY MANEUVERS

Members of the WLW staff who will cover the September Army Games in Louisiana, largest peacetime maneuvers in history, together with other radio men, correspondents and photographers, will be subject to capture as prisoners of war, the U. S. Army has announced.

The broadcasters, who will leave Cincinnati September 6, have been informed that the prisoner-of-war stipulation is part of the Army's goal of maximum duplication of war conditions in the unprecedentedly broad military operations.

RADIO BRIEFS

John P. Medbury, Hollywood humorist, who at one time was a scripter for Burns and Allen, has been signed to write the adventures of Capt. Flagg and Sergeant Quirt in the new "What Price Glory" series which starts next month.

When Keenan Wynn opens on Broadway in "The Great White Lie," the casts of the various radio shows in which he appears will be on hand to applaud his efforts. Keenan is one of the most popular actors in radio among his co-workers.

Rumor says that Andy Devine, the gravel-voiced comedian, will join the Al Pearce gang as a regular when those programs resume in the fall.

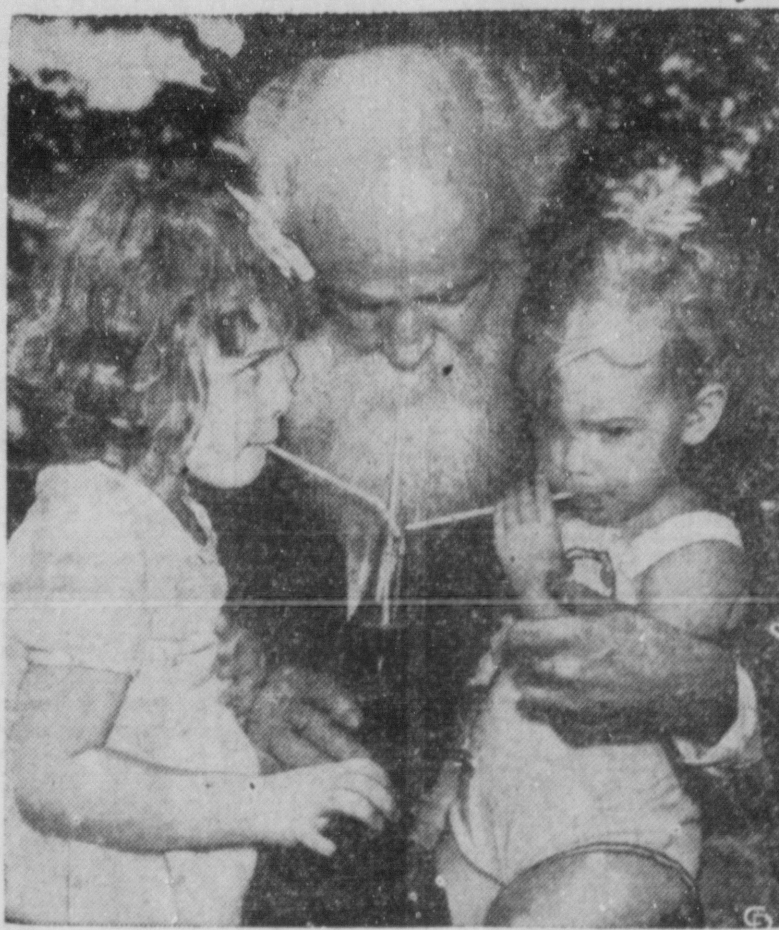

A new vocalist will be introduced on the "Cugat Rumba Revue" this week. He is Papito Rodriguez, whose remarkable voice will be heard in the selection, "Echo." Papito will be heard in addition to Lina Romay and Carmen Castillo.

Paul Lukas and Boris Karloff have been alternating as guest stars on "Inner Sanctum Mystery" and now there's a possibility that they'll be starred together on one of the forthcoming programs.

THREE UP FOR PAROLE

Three Pickaway Countians now serving time in the Ohio Reformatory at Mansfield are eligible for parole hearings October 1. They are James Robinson, convicted December 10, 1940, for burglary and larceny and serving one to 15 years; A. L. Harold, convicted the same date for forgery and under one to 20 year sentence, and Richard Conrad, convicted last December 10 on a statutory charge, and serving one to 20 years.

Pumpkin Show Officials Face Several Problems

Pumpkin Show directors will meet sometime next week to get definite plans for the 1941 Pumpkin Show under way.

Mack Parrett, secretary of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, said Monday that by the first of next week all premium books should be out and distributed and show directors can go ahead with final plans for the show.

WEDDING PERMIT BUSINESS TO BE QUIET FOR WHILE

Probate Court officials expect to see a lull in the number of marriage licenses issued within the next few weeks.

The new marriage law, effective Monday, provides that each person, before applying for a marriage license, must have a physician's certificate showing that he is free from syphilis "in communicable state." The new requirement will raise the marriage license cost from $1 to $10 or $12.

Most of the young couples planning to be married in the near future have secured licenses under the old law. Consequently the probability is that few licenses will be issued in the near future, Probate Court officials believe.

Five licenses were issued Saturday, the last day for the old marriage law. Licenses were issued to Robert Lee Sniff, 21, Ashland, foundry worker, and Ora Mae Harrison, 524 East Franklin Street; John Joseph Williams, 22, Circleville Route 1, farmer, and Betty Jane Bush, Circleville Route 4; Alton Brooks Campbell, 36, Duvall, railroad employee, and Nancy Catherine Nance, Ashville; Franklin Gilliam, 24, Ashville Route 2, and Florence Gertrude Eccard, Ashville Route 2; and Melvin George Manbevra, 20, Circleville Route 3, laborer and Winnie Kathryn Cornwall, Orient Route 2.

JOHNSON RITES HELD

The Rev. Richard S. Veisler, assistant rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Columbus, officiated at funeral services conducted for Mrs. Annie V. Johnson. VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

August 18, 1941

To The Editor:

In the case of Mr. Ralph Edward Dunkel permit me to make these statements. First, his classification in the draft is not 1-A. He was given 1-A at first, but on appeal that was changed to 1-A-O, which would place him in non-combatant service. Second, he is not willing, and has not been willing to accept noncombatant service, but is unalterably opposed to any part in human slaughter, even by digging trenches for the man with the rifle.

Further, it does not seem quite fair to call him a "self-styled conscientious objector". He is a genuine conscientious objector, or there are none. Having known Mr. Dunkel for nearly twelve years, I am sure he would not claim convictions which he does not hold, and would scorn evasion by subterfuge. His objections, too, are not of recent origin. More than four years ago my son roomed with him a whole school year while attending the O. S. U. Mr. Dunkel held the same ideas about war then as now, and often expressed the same convictions and purposes. Our Congress passed an Act providing that conscientious objectors might work in a non-military camp without pay and costing the objector about thirty five dollars a month. This is what Mr. Dunkel desires. For whom was the Act intended, if not for such as he?

Hitler maintains that the individual has no inherent rights. The State is all. Denying to a small minority their right to convictions leans too far Nazi way.

This is written without Mr. Dunkel's knowledge or consent.
